BERLIN AGREEMENT REACHED

. . . Big Four Are Expected To Approve Proposal

Berlin (AP) — The Big Four, often at odds in East-West confrontations concerning mutual responsibilities for occupied and divided Berlin, concluded Monday a draft agreement on the future of the former German capital.

Such heretofore thorny issues as access to and from isolated West Berlin, often the focal point of Communist harassment that in 1948-49 included a Russian land blockade of the city, seemed on the verge of being eased if not solved.

There also was the prospect that for the first time in five years, the Wall built in 1961 would be opened to let West Berliners go to Communist-controlled East Berlin to visit relatives and friends.

The agreement will be submitted to Washington, London, Paris and Moscow for security and approval but this appeared a formality.

The French negotiator said he felt government approval could come as quickly as in two weeks. Jean Sauvagnargues was the first of the French, British, American and Russian ambassadors to West and East Germany to have expressed optimism that progress was being made in the 17-month dialogue.

The American envoy, Kenneth Rush, beat an official communique to the punch and told scores of waiting newsmen: "We have a draft agreement for submission to our governments.

"I would not have submitted this agreement to my government if I did not think it was a good agreement."

He added that he felt it materially would improve the situation in Berlin, the lot of Berliners and win approval from the German people.

The communique stated: "The ambassadors reached accord on the draft text of an overall agreement for submission to their governments for consideration. The date of the next ambassadorial meeting will be determined in the near future."

The 33rd session in the Berlian dialogue was held in Rush's West Berlin residence. As he posed with Sauvagnargues, Britian's Sir Roger Jackling and Russia's Pyotr Abrasimov, Rush was heard to ask Abrasimov: "Will you be going to Moscow until we meet again or will you remain here?"

Abrasimov, whose embassy is in East Berlin, did not answer but gave a hand over head boxer's winning signal and told pressing newsmen: "Everything is perfect."

Rush's question, however, indicated that the ambassadors already had set a 34th meeting date when they would sign the governmentally approved agreement.

The next step after signing the agreement would be for East and West German negotiators to work out details of access traffic. The official East German news agency ADN reported that Germany and Michael Kohl of East Germany the next meeting of Egon Bahr of West would be held in East Berlin Thursday instead of six days later. It is reliably understood that Bahr and Kohl are well along in their own dialogue on the access question. Bahr is West Germany's eastern affairs expert.

German reports gave a generally broad if not detailed outline of what the agreement contained:

—Access: The Russians agreed to carry a mutual reponsibility for civilian access traffic but balked at giving the flat guarantee the West sought.

—Travelers between West Germany and West Berlin still will be identified but not controlled as at present. This would mean cars no longer would be searched. Freight would go in sealed trains and trucks instead of inspected as before. Unclear was whether the East Germans could make spot checks of such goods. Actual details are to be worked out by the East and West Germans.

—Political presence by West Germany would be reduced. For example, Willy Brandt as chancellor could come to West Berlin but could not exercise formal duties, with the federal president limited in the same way and with future presidential elections and plenary sessions of the West German parliament forbidden, in effect, by four-power decree. Political parties and parliamentary committee may continue to meet in West Berlin.

—Wall passes are not mentioned as such, with West Berliners to be treated as West Germans in applying to go to East Germany. A third set of negotiations, between East and West Berlin, is to work out details.

—West Berliners are to be represented abroad by West Germany, but with special allied stamps in their passports saying allied authorization was involved.

—A Russian consulate-general will be permitted in West Berlin, but accredited to the Western ally in whose sector it is to be located.

Freeze-Tax Proposal Falls One Vote Short

By TOM EKVALL
Star Staff Writer

Councilman Merle Hale dropped an 11th hour bombshell in the laps of the city administration Monday with his proposal to freeze the city tax levy at 26.19 mills — the same as for the current fiscal year.

Hale's proposal caught the administration and some councilmen by surprise.

There were four days left before the budget must be adopted. The city's fiscal year expires Aug. 31; the budget must be adopted five days before the beginning of next fiscal year, Sept. 1

Motion Fails 3-3

Hale's motion, however, failed on a 3-to-3 vote — one short of enough to take action. Councilwoman Helen Boosalis was on vacation.

The council is scheduled to meet at 8 a.m Friday to formally adopt the proposed budget which Finance Director James Mallon said Monday would require a 27.12 mill levy.

The proposed levy is 3.5% more than that for the current fiscal year and would mean a $6.51 increase in taxes on a house with an actual value of $20,000.

The mill levy freeze would have required a $325,000 cut in the tax-supported portion of the budget. Hale said he felt the cut could be achieved without a reduction in salaries or services.

He received support from Council Chairman Dick Hartsock and Robert Sikyta during the roll-call vote. Councilmen Steve Cook, Pete Peterson and Richard Baker voted against the freeze.

Nixon Freeze Cited

Hale cited President Nixon's recent wage and price freeze announcement as to why he was now proposing the freeze. He said he felt the city could go farther and hold the line on its expenditures.

Hartsock and Sikyta agreed, saying they felt that by operating more efficiently the city administration could absorb the $325,000 without a decrease in services.

Those oppositing the freeze said they supported the concept of holding the line but felt that now is too late to start cutting the budget. The budget must be approved by Friday or else the mayor's proposed budget goes into effect.

Where To Cut?

Some questioned where the cuts would be made

Hale at first said the reduction could come by postponing capital improvements and later suggested a 3.5% decrease of each department's budget.

Sikyta and Hartsock objected to a flat decrease for each department, saying that some should be cut more than others.

Hartsock said the cut would only work if department heads look at their budgets and see where a little "could be scraped off."

"It can be done," he argued, "providing everyone works together to make it work."

Cook said the council has reviewed the budget for a month without finding places to cut.

"Then all of a sudden comes the cut. I don't believe we can do it in this fashion and provide the services," he said.

Cook continued he would hate to trust to chance that the department heads could cut their budgets without cutting services.

Baker said the council would be "spinning its wheels" trying to cut the budget this late in the process.

Mayor Appears

Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf, who appeared before the council to suggest cutting $266,000 by postponing services and improvements, received no takers.

His proposal included pet projects of some of the councilmen.

In response to remarks by supporters of Hale's motion about the efficiency of city government, Schwartzkopf said he welcomes the $15,000 added to the budget and the proposed "Little Hoover commission" to study the operation of city government and commission" to find ways to cut costs.

He said he doubted that with the time remaining, the city could pinpoint inefficiencies that could result in a $325,000 savings.

A traveler to the Alliance area this summer finds the same refreshing friendliness that through the years has been identified with the Midwest. But to the visitor who asks questions, an air of tension about the city and civic offices becomes quickly apparent, rivaling the atmosphere of Nebraska hospitality.

Such phrases as "let sleeping dogs lie," "running scared" and "Apple Indian" are sprinkled in the conversation of whites and Indians alike, and adverse publicity received in recent weeks has given the city fathers something more to worry about than the population loss that has stumped the town.

When the 27-year old Arthur Gene Blackhorse hanged himself in the Alliance City Jail last October, a watchdog citizens group organized to investigate circumstances surrounding the death. The jail attracted more attention two months later, when a second hanging occurred, this time resulting in the death of 34-year-old Joe No Leaf. In June, 18-year-old Chillo Whirlwind Soldier Swalley hanged himself with a bathtowel in the Box Butte County Jail in Alliance.

Then Mrs. Irene Blackfeather, 43, was arrested in July for making a disturbance in an Alliance park and police officers mistakenly diagnosed her groaning and vomiting as usual drunken behavior. Mrs. Blackfeather was drunk, but she was also dying of pneumonia caused by cirrhosis of the liver. She died in the city jail that night, without receiving medical attention.

Power District To Try To Assure AEC That N-Plant Is OK Environmentally

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

The Nebraska Public Power District will submit early next month a report designed to assure the Atomic Energy Commission that its Cooper Station nuclear plant meets the requirements of the national environmental policy act.

The report was prompted by a District of Columbia Court of Appeals decision ordering AEC to revise its rules governing consideration of non-radiological environmental issues in licensing nuclear facilities.

AEC was directed to consider fully the environmental impact of all nuclear power plants to see if they comply with the 1969 environmental policy act.

Hailed As Milestone

The court decision has been hailed by conservationists as an environmental milestone.

NPPD is constructing an 800-000-kilowatt nuclear plant along the Missouri River near Brownville.

"We think we have met the intent of the environmental policy act," NPPD nuclear project administrator Ron Reder said Monday.

"But we will be filing an environmental report listing the considerations we made in determining the plant's operating procedures."

'Too Early' To Tell

Pending a review of environmental factors by AEC, it is "too early to determine what effect" the court decision may have on Cooper Station, Reder said.

The 1969 law, in effect, "tells you to consider the total environmental impact" of construction, Reder said, "but it doesn't tell you what to do."

If there is a long review process, it could — at the least — result in some delays, he noted.

Some experts have predicted that all nuclear power construction will be delayed by a number of months as a result of the court ruling.

"If the reviewers have a heavy workload, that could happen," Reder said.

61 Applications Affected

AEC has estimated that the court's decision will directly affect 61 applications involving 88 nuclear reactors.

NPPD meets AEC rules "as now written," Reder noted.

And once they are revised to meet the court's directive, "we think the plant can meet those requirements too," he said.

NPPD will keep state agencies fully informed of its actions, Reder said.

Cooper Station costs, originally estimated at $130 million, now are expected to hit $205 million.

Initially expected to be operational by April 1972, the plant is now slated to begin operations in the summer of 1973.

Dollar Demonstrates Surprising Amount Of Strength

Washington (UPI) — As a major domestic challenge to President Nixon's wage-price freeze authority melted away, the dollar demonstrated surprising strength Monday in cautious trading on the reopened European currency markets.

A full week after Nixon's abrupt shift in policy, the stock market was showing strength and three former wage-price administrators called on the administration to impose long-term controls on at least basic industry and big unions to prevent a new wave of inflation at the end of the freeze.

In Austin, State Attorney General Crawford Martin ruled that Gov. Preston E. Smith of Texas could not defy the freeze and order pay raises for 132,000 teachers and other state employes.

Smith, acknowledging "I didn't have too many illusions about winning this thing," said he would go along with Martin's decision, but said he still would like to see a court decide the constitutional question of whether Nixon has the authority to negate a state law.

Smith's acceptance of Crawford's ruling ended the governor's five days of open defiance of Nixon's wage-price-rent freeze. But organized labor showed no signs of ending its opposition to Nixon's plan.

In Europe, the dollar fell on most markets as trading resumed for the first time since Nixon's announcement a week ago Sunday night. But traders were slow and cautious and the effect of the first day of trading in a dollar not tied to gold was inconclusive.

Against the West German mark — one of the strongest currencies in the world — the dollar dropped 6.7%, from 3.66 marks per dollar to 3.4250.

The dollar first dropped 2.5% against the British pound sterling, itself being allowed to "float" freely for the first time since the start of World War II, but it rebounded to about a decline of about 1.7% later in the day.

The old official rate was $2.40 to the pound and the dollar finished $2.445 to the pound.

Two nations, Israel and Indonesia, devalued their currencies as the shock waves from the U.S. moves continued to sweep around the world. In Tokyo, the stock market plunged again Monday as pressure increased on the Japanese government to revalue the yen upwards by as much as 20%.

Government and steel industry spokesmen reported, meantime, that a special ruling by the new Cost of Living Council will permit the steel industry to keep an 8% price increase it put into effect just nine days before the freeze.

Without the special interpretation of the freeze rules, the industry might have been forced to roll back its prices to levels prior to Aug 5 when it announced increases for about half its products.

This would have caught the industry in a tight pinch, because of a 15% wage increase that went into effect Aug. 1. A Treasury official refused to confirm or deny a report in Monday's Wall Street Journal that the ruling was "carefully devised" to take the industry off the hook.

That ruling by the council said that the base period for firms that raised prices in August would be considered to have begun when the increase was posted and became effective.

Without that ruling, the steel industry would have had to show that it had sold at least 10% of its products at the higher rates — and this appeared unlikely — or roll the increases back.

Bloody Escape Try Believed First Step Of Big Breakout

San Quentin, Calif. (UPI) — Prison officials said Monday a bloody escape attempt in which six persons died may have been the planned first stage in a mass breakout by San Quentin Prison's most hardened convicts, wearing the uniforms of murdered guards.

Authorities sought the grandson of a former Connecticut governor and U.S. Senator for questioning about the smuggled gun, hidden in the "Afro-style" hair of black revolutionary George Jackson, who touched off the escape attempt.

San Quentin officials said Jackson produced the gun Saturday a few minutes after he was visited by attorney Stephen Mitchell Bingham, 29, grandson of the late Hiram Bingham.

Twenty minutes later, Jackson was shot to death as he broke out of the prison's "adjustment center" for hard-case convicts and the bodies of three guards and two white prisoners were found piled in Jackson's cell.

State Director of Corrections Raymond F. Procunier said in Sacramento the guard's bodies were found stripped. He said the plan may have been for the inmates to put on their uniforms and escort Jackson back to the visitor's center, where they could take hostages and try to escape.

Procunier said it would have been doomed to failure in any event.

"What they probably didn't know was that we don't dicker with (prisoners holding) hostages, and it doesn't matter who it is," he said.

As it turned out, a guard outside the adjustment center was alerted to the attempted rescue when a shot was fired through the glass wall. He turned in the alarm, while three fellow guards were being systematically murdered inside the cell block, their throats slashed with a razor blade.

Procunier also said there would be stringent crackdowns at all prisons on violent and inflammatory literature and on the convicts, like Jackson, who held such beliefs.

"Some inmates who traditionally have had more freedom within the walls may not have it now," he said. "We're going to have closer security inside. We're going to have restrictive programs and they're going to have to work their way out of them."

He said he was referring to "the bona fide revolutionaries . . . the type of person who carries on with a lot of revolutionary rhetoric. The people we're talking about don't consider they've got a problem. They believe society has a problem."

He also said he intended to "find a way" to hire more guards for all state prisons and said San Quentin, nearly 120 years old and California's oldest penitentiary, was hopelessly outmoded and "should have been pushed into the bay 100 years ago."

No warrant was issued either for Bingham or for an unidentified woman who accompanied him to the prison, but authorities said they wanted to question both. The woman had waited outside the prison and had not seen Jackson.

Bingham, son of Salem, Conn., attorney Alfred Bingham, was an honors graduate in political science from Yale in 1964. He served with the Peace Corps in Sierra Leone and worked with the Neighborhood Legal Service in Berkeley, Calif.

His mother said in Salem Monday she could not believe he had anything to do with the San Quentin Prison break. "It's entirely out of character," she said. She said she did not know where her son was.

San Quentin Associate Warden James Park said all six deaths Saturday occurred within a period of 20 minutes, from the time Jackson came back from the visitors bureau and the gun was discovered in his hair at 2:35 p.m. until he died of gunfire from a watch tower.

Park said guard Frank Deleon discovered the 9-millimeter pistol in Jackson's hair when he was searching him to return him to his cell, but that Jackson "get the drop" on Deleon and on a second guard who entered the room about the same time. Both officers were forced back into the cell block and all 27 hard-case inmates were let out of their cells.

At 2:50 p.m. with Deleon and guard Paul Krasenes apparently already murdered with a razor blade taped to a toothbrush, Sgt. Jere Graham came into the adjustment center. He was also forced inside, taken to Jackson's cell and shot to death. But a guard outside was alerted by the shots and turned in the alarm.

After Jackson ran out of the adjustment center guards brought up a 45-caliber machine gun, aimed it directly down the corridor. With prisoners hiding in cells and behind doors, the guards raked the corridor with bullets. This allowed other hostage guards to bolt to safety, Park said, three of them badly slashed.

Park said he did not believe all the murders occurred in Jackson's cell but that the bodies were dragged there and thrown into a pile. Sgt. Kenneth McCray, 29, one of the guards who survived, was found alive at the bottom of the pile of corpses.

Larry Spain, a convict, bolted from the building with Jackson but was recaptured unharmed.

Other developments in the aftermath of the bloodiest outbreak in San Quentin's 119-year history included:

—Jackson, already a hero to the revolutionary left and the author of a book "Soledad Brother," was euglogized by radicals and by his family as a martyr for justice. His parents accused prison guards of murdering him.

—San Quentin, Soledad State Prison, were Jackson and the other two "Soledad Brothers" had been accused of murdering a guard, and a third California prison were put on "general lockup" and strict security.

—The other two Soledad Brothers, John Cluchette and Fleeta Drumgo, did not show up for a pretrial hearing in San Francisco and defense attorneys demanded that prison officials be cited for contempt for refusing to produce them.

Panthers Called Ranting Radicals

Washington (AP) — A divided House Internal Security Committee described Black Panthers Monday as ranting revolutionary radicals "totally incapable of overthrowing our government by violence."

However, instead of being "merely mischievous children," said Rep. Richardson Preyer, D-N.C., members of the militant Negro group "turn all too easily to guns in their rage and frustration. They pose a serious physical danger to the police, and their violent language and conduct create a climate for revolution, even though the Panthers themselves cannot bring about a revolution."

Preyer, head of a committee panel that investigated the Panthers last year, defended the committee's 145-page report amid criticism from Republicans who argued the study should have hit harder.

The four GOP members of the committee — Reps. John M. Ashbrook of Ohio, Roger H. Zion of Indiana, Fletcher Thompson of Georgia and John G. Schmitz of California — contended the report does not give "a clear understanding of the Black Panther party as a subversive criminal group, using the facade of politics and Marxist-Leninist ideology as a cover for crimes of violence and extortion."

Pryer said the facts would justify "a real zinger of a report" but added:

"Such a report would run the risk of making martyrs of the Panthers; a cooler and more balanced report would avoid any possibility of reviving a flagging Panther party by making available the charge of 'oppression.' The Panthers wear 'oppression' like a badge; it is their excuse for not making it in society — or even trying to make it. It is their too easy excuse for any unlawful or violent act."

The report, denouncing what it called "the gun-barrel politics" of the Black Panther party, came after lengthy research into the group's national structuring and operations of party chapters in Kansas City, Seattle, Omaha, Des Moines, Detroit, Philadelphia and Indianapolis.

Preyer said the party, "as a national organization, is near disintegration. Its peak membership was never more than 1,500 or 2,000, and the committee hearings document the steady decline in these numbers during the last year."

The report criticizes use of the mails for distributing the party's official newspaper. It says also the government should be sure "all federal tax obligations are fully met."

The GOP dissidents insisted the tone and emphasis of the report are "unfair to the police and to the American people — especially blacks — who have to cope with Panther crime and violence. . .

"The treatment of the Panther relationship to the Communist party is grossly inadequate."

Bolivian Planes Subdue Leftist Student Holdouts

By GUILLERMO MORTRUEZ

La Paz, Bolivia (UPI) — Bolivian air force planes bombed and strafed student holdouts in La Paz' San Marcos University Monday after they refused a government ultimatum to lay down their arms and surrender.

The air force attacks on an estimated 1,000 students barricaded in the university were carried out by World War II vintage P51 Mustang fighters which flew sorties over a 15 minute period.

Armored cars were sent to the scene from the El Alto Air Force Base to back up an estimated 180 mountain troops dispatched to the university by Bolivia's new nationalist president, Col. Hugo Banzer. The troops had orders to flush out the last nests of leftist holdouts against the regime and Banzer called in the air force when barricaded students refused guarantees for their lives if they would surrender.

The students in the university, long a hotbed of political dissent, hid out in the cellar Sunday night when deposed President Juan Jose Torres fled the palace after collapse of organized resistance to Banzer's forces.

The new government said 112 persons died in the four-day revolt led by Banzer, most of them in the streets of La Paz, while hundreds of others were wounded in the last flurry of house-to-house fighting in the 12,000-foot high capital.

Banzer moved quickly Monday to consolidate his hold on the country. He suspended all private and public activities and named a new armed forces commander, Col. Remberto Iriarte, a former Bolivian ambassador to Argentina.

Banzer, Iriarte and Col. Andrew Selich, head of Bolivia's U.S.-trained ranger battalion, led the revolt that ousted Torres over the weekend.

Torres was reported hiding out in the Peruvian embassy apparently waiting for a safe conduct to leave the country. A former army chief before he seized power last October in a coup, Torres fled into the Peruvian embassy Sunday after failure of last-ditch efforts to rally his followers in the capital to halt the advance of the insurgents.

The Argentine foreign office in Buenos Aires said that Torres' wife and three children were in hiding in the Argentine embassy in La Paz. Also reported to have sought refuge there were Torres' foreign minister, Walter Taborda Torrico; his defense minister, Gen. Emilio Molina Pizarro and the former press chief, Gaston Berregas Saa.

In Washington, a State Department spokesman said no formal action would be taken with respect to recognition of the new Bolivian government until it advises the United States that it controls the situation and will respect prior Bolivian foreign commitments.

Dryland Crops Need Moisture

. . . 65% Corn In Dough Stage

By the Associated Press

Nebraska's dry weather has caused a decline in the condition of non-irrigated crops in some areas, the State-Federal Bureau of Agricultural Statistics reported Monday.

Nebraska News

The bureau's weekly crop report said irrigated crops continue to remain in good to excellent condition but said top soil is dry in many areas of the state.

Corn development has reached 65% in the dough stage and 30% dented.

Although southern corn leaf blight has been found in five more counties, its severity has generally remained about the same as last week, the report said.

Sorghum development has progressed to heads turning color in 15% of the acreage although a lack of rain is causing concern in some areas.

Five per cent of the soybean leaves are turning color and although a rain would be helpful, the crop is reported to be making good progress.

Supplemental feeding of cattle has become necessary because of dry conditions in some pastures, the report said.

Moisture received throughout the state during the past week included:

Lincoln	.40	North Platte	.34
Norflok	.14	Omaha	.37

Precipitation via sections since the beginning of the growing season, April 1, as compared to longtime averages follows:

Northwest — 10.61 inches (1971); 10.78 inches (normal)
North Central — 12 70, 12.92.
Northeast — 15 07, 15 01.
Central — 13.90; 14.06.

Texas Trio Released As Murder Suspects

Gering (AP) — Scotts Bluff County Sheriff Jim Miller said Monday two men and a 14-year-old boy from Texas were released late Monday after being held in connection with the shooting of a Gering, Neb., man.

Miller said Juvenito Montalabo, 37, Buckeye, Tex., Jose Montalabo, 27, Harlingen, Tex. and Abel Espinoza, 14, of Arlington, Tex., were all released, due to lack of "sufficient evidence."

The men had been held in connection with the shooting death of Patrick Vostados, 40, which occurred Friday night or early Saturday morning.

Vostados was found along a county road about five miles south of Stegall Saturday shot to death.

The trio was arrested at a roadblock south of Lyman following a complaint from a farmer near Lyman.

Miller said there were blood stains in the trunk of the car in which the three were riding. However, Miller said Monday the blood was from an animal.

Sheriff Miller said he will question two men being held in the Goshen County jail at Torrington, Wyo., who were also arrested in connection with an assault complaint from a farmer near Lyman.

The men are identified as Refuio Andaverde Jr., 25, Harlingen, Tex., and Guadalupe Ybarra, 30. A third man, Homar Alvarez, 20, was also arrested with the other two, but federal officials transported him to Cheyenne, Wyo., Monday and charged him with auto theft.

Miller said the three had a .38 caliber pistol and a .22 caliber rifle and a stolen car in their possession when arrested in a line shack just across the Wyoming-Nebraska border.

Miller said it had been determined that Vostados had been shot with a .38 caliber weapon.

Five Youths Found Hurt Near Valley

Omaha (AP)—Authorities said Monday an unusual chain of events in Valley led to the hospitalization of five youths.

Two were found near a wrecked car, another unconscious in a service station restroom and two more in other cars.

Four remained hospitalized Monday night, one in serious condition with a fractured trachea. Douglas County and Valley authorities said all five face drug charges.

Four are from Valley, the fifth is apparently from Carter Lake and had been living in Valley about two weeks.

A sixth youth said he gave the Carter Lake girl mouth-to-mouth resuscitation and other assistance for approximately 1½ hours before searchers found them by the wrecked car near the Valley City Park.

Hospitalized were: Roxanna Artery, 15, who authorities said has apparently been living in Valley, in serious condition; Pam Schroeder, 17, Valley, in fair condition; Charles Schulz, 19, Valley, good condition; Cathy Heinke, 16, satisfactory condition; and Gary Cady, 17, Valley, scheduled for release to sheriff's custody.

All were hospitalized in Omaha.

Meeting Canceled

Ottawa (UPI) — Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau announced he will be unable to meet with British Prime Minister Edward Heath because of the current economic situation. Trudeau had planned to meet with Heath Sept. 6 but said that "because of the curret international economic situation," he would have to postpone the meeting.

Body Discovered In River Likely Missing Omahan

Percival, Iowa (AP) — Omaha police say a body believed to be that of Mark Allen Rathe, 17, of Omaha, was pulled from the Missouri River near here Sunday, nearly 45 miles from where the youth's car was found abandoned in June.

Rathe was last seen the evening of June 4 when he left his home in the family car, his parents said at the time. Police later found the car abandoned on the South Omaha Bridge.

Iowa authorities told police a billfold with Rathe's identification was found on the body.

New National VFW Auxiliary Head From Omaha

Mrs. Paul Harmon of Omaha, extreme left, new national president of the Ladies Auxiliary to the Veterans of Foreign Wars, met with a delegation from Nebraska during the auxiliary's national convention in Dallas, Tex. Left to right: Mrs. Marilyn Haines of Ceresco. Mrs. Condon King of Lincoln, Mrs. Elmer Bruns of Seward, Mrs. Laura Bishop of Lincoln and Mrs. Raymond Wiese of Wahoo. Mrs. Harmon urged the auxiliary's 465,000 members to sponsor projects to honor and assist returning veterans.

Ag, Industry Interdependence Told

Some 15 widely diverse Nebraska industries, representative of hundreds of home-grown industries geographically dispersed throughout the state, are cited to demonstrate the interdependence of agriculture and industry in an article in the August issue of "Business in Nebraska."

The publication of the College of Business Administration's Bureau of Business Research at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, finds evidence of this interrelationship in the year-to-year changes in the state's industrial mix as shifts are made to meet the changing needs of agriculture

According to Mrs. Dorothy Switzer, author of the article: "The interrelationship of Nebraska agriculture and industry is seen also in the fact that development of geographically-dispersed manufacturing plants provides employment within the home community for rural persons displaced by farm technology. In addition, this offers the opportunity for supplemental income for farm families whose land holdings are insufficient to return adequate income from on-the-farm sources alone."

Citing figures on Nebraska industrial employment from 1960 to 1970, Mrs. Switzer states that despite the one third decline in agricultural employment, the needs of agriculture as a segment of the economy proliferated.

Because owners and managers who were asked to offer advice to future entrepreneurs responded almost unanimously, "be sure you have plenty of working capital," Mrs. Switzer points out that "the cumulative effect of these admonitions about capital may be suggestive of financial interests in communities that are seeking to encourage industrial development."

The article stresses the fact that since manufacturing employment in Nebraska increased only slightly in relation to total employment in a period when agricultural production was expanding rapidly, it appears that Nebraska industry has failed to capitalize fully on the opportunity to process and manufacture the increased production of the state's farms and ranches.

In addition, net migration figures show that in many counties such industrial development has not been sufficient to provide employment for displaced rural persons.

The city of York is used as an example to demonstrate that in a typical medium-sized Nebraska community there is usually a predominance of firms that manufacture equipment and supplies needed by the surrounding farm or ranch community and of those that process the products of the area.

It is stated that more than 52% of all those who work in York manufacturing plants are employed by three firms that depend on agriculture for their raw materials and more than 23% are employed in firms that produce essentially agribusiness equipment and supplies.

Industries cited in the article are located in all parts of the state, some in very small towns. All have demonstrated innovative creativity on the part of their founders. Some, such as the York Foundry and Engine Works, which originated in 1882, and the Arkfeld Manufacturing and Distribution Company, founded in 1920, have been in business for many years. Others such as the Grant Bean and Seed Company, established in 1969, and the Ravenna Cheese Company, which opened in 1967, are relatively new.

Firms categorized as serving the needs of agriculture include the Hastings Irrigation Pipe Company; Heinsman Engineering, Grand Island; Geis Irrigation, with headquarters in York; Piester Manufacturing, Minden; Tomsicek Manufacturing, Ithaca; Orthman Manufacturing, Lexington; Apache Manufacturing, Hoskins; York Manufacturing, Henderson; and Daniels Manufacturing, Ainsworth.

Among those processing farm and ranch products are the Tyler Popcorn Company, Chapman; Nebraska Beef Packers, Gordon, and the York Packing Company, Sunflower Beef Packers, and Consolidated Blenders, all of York.

The author concludes that the future of Nebraska economic development depends on full capitalization on the mutually advantageous interrelationship of agriculture and industry.

Bloody Weekend Claims 8 Lives

By the Associated Press

The weekend was one of the bloodiest on Nebraska highways this year, with eight deaths recorded as a result of motor vehicle crashes.

The state highway fatality count for the year now stands at 272, compared with 262 on Aug. 23, 1971.

An 18-year-old Mason City girl was killed and four other persons were injured, one of them critically, in a one car accident Sunday night 1.6 miles east of Ansley on Nebraska 2.

The State Patrol identified the victim as Diane P. Cox. The patrol said she was a passenger in a westbound car driven by John Koziel, 22, of Loup City, which apparently went out of control and rolled over several times. Koziel is listed in satisfactory condition in a Kearney hospital.

One Critical

Michael A. Knect, 17, Loup City, was reported in critical condition in a Kearney hospital and two other passengers, Jan Turner, 16, of Mason City and Ernest Chamberlain, 20, of Grand Island, were hospitalized in Mason City.

The Douglas County sheriff's office said Jamie Sterner, 10, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gary Baker of Blair, died in an Omaha hospital Monday of injuries suffered last Thursday.

The investigating officers said a car driven by the boy's mother was in collision with a truck at the junction of Highways 36 and 233 northwest of Omaha. Mrs. Baker remains hospitalized.

Douglas Brader, 19, of Norfolk, was killed Sunday night when he was thrown from a car about five miles east of Pierce on U.S. 81, the State Patrol said.

The patrol said a car driven by Alvin Dahlkotter, 19, of Norfolk, apparently went out of control after a tire blew out and rolled, with Brader being thrown out.

Robert E. Fox, 21, of Harrison, was killed Sunday when he was thrown out of a pickup truck about five miles north of Harrison, in Soux County.

The patrol said the pickup was attempting to pass another vehicle on a hard-surfaced road when it went out of control. A passenger, Bruce Wickerham, 21, of Harrison, was treated at a hospital and released.

Rodney Beckman, 28, of Ralston, was killed about midnight Saturday when the patrol said his motorcycle struck dead-end on a county road about two miles northwest of Chapman.

Cheryl Graham, 16, of rural Milford, was killed Saturday night when a car apparently went out of control, spun and threw the girl out, northwest of Crete.

Robert Kraeger, 24, of Columbus, and Dick Dittmer, 25, of Genoa, were killed Saturday in a two-car crash at a county road intersection about four miles east of York.

Woman 'Poor' After Shooting; Husband Sought

Falls City (AP) — Mrs. Mary Lou Bernhardt, 25, of Falls City, was listed in poor condition at Falls City Community Hospital Monday after being shot four times with a .22 caliber automatic pistol at her home Sunday night.

A charge of felonious assault with intent to do great bodily harm was filed by the Richardson County attorney's office against the woman's husband, Don Bernhart, 34, in connection with the shooting.

Local and state officials were searching for Bernhart Monday.

Hearing Friday For Couple Charged With Deserting Boy

Falls City (AP) — Jim and Sharon Bell, of Mission, Kan., were arraigned Monday in Richardson County Court on charges of child abandonment and criminal negligence in connection with the abandonment of a five-year-old boy in Falls City Aug. 13.

Judge Albert Haust set bond at $5,000 each and the Bells, formerly of Edina, Minn., remained in jail in lieu of bond. The Bells asked the court to appoint an attorney for them.

A preliminary hearing on the charges is tentatively scheduled for Friday.

The Bells were arrested in Olathe, Kan., Thursday and were returned to Falls City Friday, after waiving extradition

Marks On Child

The child knocked on the door of a Falls City residence and said his name was Bruce Edward Bell and that his parents had let him out of a car. Police Chief Blaine Sailors said the child told him he had been tied up by his parents on occasion and the chief said the boy's wrists and ankles bear marks indicating that he had been bound with a rope.

The boy has been staying with the Sailors family and the court has ordered him to remain in the family's custody until a Sept. 2 hearing in juvenile court to determine his permanent custody.

Bell told the court Monday that the child's real name is Bruce Edward Sherer, and said that the child is not his son and has not been legally adopted.

When arrested, the Bells had two other children with them. Those children have been placed in a Johnson County, Kan., foster home, pending outcome of the case.

In addition, this offers the opportunity for supplemental income for farm families whose land holdings are insufficient to return adequate income from on-the-farm sources alone."

Citing figures on Nebraska industrial employment from 1960 to 1970, Mrs. Switzer states that despite the one third decline in agricultural employment, the needs of agriculture as a segment of the economy proliferated.

Because owners and managers who were asked to offer advice to future entrepreneurs responded almost unanimously, "be sure you have plenty of working capital," Mrs. Switzer points out that "the cumulative effect of these admonitions about capital may be suggestive of financial interests in communities that are seeking to encourage industrial development."

The article stresses the fact that since manufacturing employment in Nebraska increased only slightly in relation to total employment in a period when agricultural production was expanding rapidly, it appears that Nebraska industry has failed to capitalize fully on the opportunity to process and manufacture the increased production of the state's farms and ranches.

In addition, net migration figures show that in many counties such industrial development has not been sufficient to provide employment for displaced rural persons.

The city of York is used as an example to demonstrate that in a typical medium-sized Nebraska community there is usually a predominance of firms that manufacture equipment and supplies needed by the surrounding farm or ranch community and of those that process the products of the area.

It is stated that more than 52% of all those who work in York manufacturing plants are employed by three firms that depend on agriculture for their raw materials and more than 23% are employed in firms that produce essentially agribusiness equipment and supplies.

Industries cited in the article are located in all parts of the state, some in very small towns. All have demonstrated innovative creativity on the part of their founders. Some, such as the York Foundry and Engine Works, which originated in 1882, and the Arkfeld Manufacturing and Distribution Company, founded in 1920, have been in business for many years. Others such as the Grant Bean and Seed Company, established in 1969, and the Ravenna Cheese Company, which opened in 1967, are relatively new.

Firms categorized as serving the needs of agriculture include the Hastings Irrigation Pipe Company; Heinsman Engineering, Grand Island; Geis Irrigation, with headquarters in York; Piester Manufacturing, Minden; Tomsicek Manufacturing, Ithaca; Orthman Manufacturing, Lexington; Apache Manufacturing, Hoskins; York Manufacturing, Henderson; and Daniels Manufacturing, Ainsworth.

Among those processing farm and ranch products are the Tyler Popcorn Company, Chapman; Nebraska Beef Packers, Gordon, and the York Packing Company, Sunflower Beef Packers, and Consolidated Blenders, all of York.

The author concludes that the future of Nebraska economic development depends on full capitalization on the mutually advantageous interrelationship of agriculture and industry.

Bloody Weekend Claims 8 Lives

By the Associated Press

The weekend was one of the bloodiest on Nebraska highways this year, with eight deaths recorded as a result of motor vehicle crashes.

The state highway fatality count for the year now stands at 272, compared with 262 on Aug. 23, 1971.

An 18-year-old Mason City girl was killed and four other persons were injured, one of them critically, in a one car accident Sunday night 1.6 miles east of Ansley on Nebraska 2.

The State Patrol identified the victim as Diane P. Cox. The patrol said she was a passenger in a westbound car driven by John Koziel, 22, of Loup City, which apparently went out of control and rolled over several times. Koziel is listed in satisfactory condition in a Kearney hospital.

One Critical

Michael A. Knect, 17, Loup City, was reported in critical condition in a Kearney hospital and two other passengers, Jan Turner, 16, of Mason City and Ernest Chamberlain, 20, of Grand Island, were hospitalized in Mason City.

The Douglas County sheriff's office said Jamie Sterner, 10, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gary Baker of Blair, died in an Omaha hospital Monday of injuries suffered last Thursday.

The investigating officers said a car driven by the boy's mother was in collision with a truck at the junction of Highways 36 and 233 northwest of Omaha. Mrs. Baker remains hospitalized.

Douglas Brader, 19, of Norfolk, was killed Sunday night when he was thrown from a car about five miles east of Pierce on U.S. 81, the State Patrol said.

The patrol said a car driven by Alvin Dahlkotter, 19, of Norfolk, apparently went out of control after a tire blew out and rolled, with Brader being thrown out.

Robert E. Fox, 21, of Harrison, was killed Sunday when he was thrown out of a pickup truck about five miles north of Harrison, in Soux County.

The patrol said the pickup was attempting to pass another vehicle on a hard-surfaced road when it went out of control. A passenger, Bruce Wickerham, 21, of Harrison, was treated at a hospital and released.

Rodney Beckman, 28, of Ralston, was killed about midnight Saturday when the patrol said his motorcycle struck dead-end on a county road about two miles northwest of Chapman.

Cheryl Graham, 16, of rural Milford, was killed Saturday night when a car apparently went out of control, spun and threw the girl out, northwest of Crete.

Robert Kraeger, 24, of Columbus, and Dick Dittmer, 25, of Genoa, were killed Saturday in a two-car crash at a county road intersection about four miles east of York.

Woman 'Poor' After Shooting; Husband Sought

Falls City (AP) — Mrs. Mary Lou Bernhardt, 25, of Falls City, was listed in poor condition at Falls City Community Hospital Monday after being shot four times with a .22 caliber automatic pistol at her home Sunday night.

A charge of felonious assault with intent to do great bodily harm was filed by the Richardson County attorney's office against the woman's husband, Don Bernhart, 34, in connection with the shooting.

Local and state officials were searching for Bernhart Monday.

Hearing Friday For Couple Charged With Deserting Boy

Falls City (AP) — Jim and Sharon Bell, of Mission, Kan., were arraigned Monday in Richardson County Court on charges of child abandonment and criminal negligence in connection with the abandonment of a five-year-old boy in Falls City Aug. 13.

Judge Albert Haust set bond at $5,000 each and the Bells, formerly of Edina, Minn., remained in jail in lieu of bond. The Bells asked the court to appoint an attorney for them.

A preliminary hearing on the charges is tentatively scheduled for Friday.

The Bells were arrested in Olathe, Kan., Thursday and were returned to Falls City Friday, after waiving extradition

Marks On Child

The child knocked on the door of a Falls City residence and said his name was Bruce Edward Bell and that his parents had let him out of a car. Police Chief Blaine Sailors said the child told him he had been tied up by his parents on occasion and the chief said the boy's wrists and ankles bear marks indicating that he had been bound with a rope.

The boy has been staying with the Sailors family and the court has ordered him to remain in the family's custody until a Sept. 2 hearing in juvenile court to determine his permanent custody.

Bell told the court Monday that the child's real name is Bruce Edward Sherer, and said that the child is not his son and has not been legally adopted.

When arrested, the Bells had two other children with them. Those children have been placed in a Johnson County, Kan., foster home, pending outcome of the case.

EVENTS IN PERSPECTIVE

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

An apparent escape attempt from San Quentin prison in California has left three guards and three inmates dead. The episode again serves to show the inadequacy of the prison system in general throughout the United States.

Probably we could never arrive at a prison system in which security was a guarantee. Security at San Quentin is considered very tight and, still, a gun is said to have been smuggled in to one of the inmates who was a leader in the attempted outbreak.

But the situation still demands that we give another look at our system. Nebraskans have been looking at a prison quite different from San Quentin, the maximum security prison at Fox Lake, Wis. A story on this prison was carried in the Sunday Journal and Star.

The Fox Lake institution is constructed and operated to get as far away as possible from traditional approaches to the correctional process. It allows its inmates a maximum of freedom, encouraging the development of personal responsibility and pride.

The Fox Lake operation includes a broad staff in many areas such as education, sociology, psychiatry, etc., to try to build in inmates the confidence, pride and ability that are essential if they are to stay outside of prison once they serve their time. To date, the operation has shown a far less return of released inmates than does the average prison.

There is one hooker in the Fox Lake operation; it is only a part of total state correctional operation. If Nebraska were to follow the example of Fox Lake, it would need two prisons rather than one.

Nebraska could not provide such an institution as is found at Fox Lake and have its prison problems solved. Inmates at Fox Lake have been carefully screened, placement there being contingent upon a high potential by the individual.

★

Those prisoners who are judged not to be ready for Fox Lake and its modern approach are housed in another standard institution, with maximum security and all that goes with the idea of incarceration and protection of the public.

This means that a Fox Lake approach tends to double a state's prison physical plant. Additionally, Fox Lake involved a $9 million outlay over nearly 10 years.

Is Nebraska ready to put that kind of investment into a new prison which aims far more at rehabilitation than at incarceration? We doubt that Nebraska is ready for this but, hopefully, it will become ready in the not too distant future.

Nebraska now lacks both the physical plant and staff that are needed to do the kind of job that is being done in Wisconsin. But Wisconsin thinks its program is paying off in terms of the people it is saving from future reliance upon public support.

It should be remembered that while prison is punishment for criminal deeds, the keeping of the prisoners is still a public expense. It is the public that must pay for keeping men and women behind prison walls.

One of the keys to the Fox Lake operation is found in the fact that the vast majority of those who commit a crime against society come from poor backgrounds. These people have never been in the kind of environment that would encourage them along the path of good citizenship.

The presumption of a good rehabilitation program is that, given the right environment, many prison inmates can be turned into productive members of society. This is a point often overlooked by those who downgrade rehabilitation.

What such people do is to fail to recognize the basic reasons behind so much of our crime. Very few people are criminals as a matter of pure choice, but rather, are the products of a poor environment.

Nebraska has not had such a bad experience as San Quentin but neither has it come anywhere near the advanced thinking shown at Fox Lake. We don't want the former but we do need the latter and have already lost a lot of valuable time in trying to get there.

PRUDENCE CREWDSON

Theodore Dreiser Remains Forgotten Son Of Indiana

WASHINGTON — Theodore Dreiser was never a favorite in his native state of Indiana. When he died in 1945, the Indianapolis Star commented: "His wails about the bitter cruelty and brutality of life failed to impress this literary sector, where life usually ran in conventional channels . . . The late Paul Dreiser. a brother, probably will be remembered much longer in Hoosierdom." On the first centennial of Dreiser's birth, the prediction is holding true.

At the entrance of Terre Haute, a sign reads: "The home of Paul Dresser, author of the state song 'On the Banks of the Wabash.'" There is no mention of Theodore Dreiser, author of "An American Tragedy," "Sister Carrie," and other major American novels.

A member of the city's Chamber of Commerce told Editorial Research Reports that Hoosiers no longer harbor any "hard feelings" about Dreiser's left-wing inclinations, but the composer of sentimental ballads is still more popular with them. He said Indiana State University's two-day centennial program will probably attract more out-of-town scholars than local people.

Dreiser shocked the folks back home and many others with his first novel, "Sister Carrie," published in 1901. The story of a small-town girl who runs away to the big city, takes a lover and ends up an unrepentant actress strikes the modern reader as hopelessly tame. But by the prim standards of that day, biographer W. A. Swanberg explains, the writer was "a greater potential menace to pure American ideals than Emma Goldman, who was preaching anarchism across the land."

Public hostility to his realism led Dreiser into endless battles with publisher and censors. "My inner instincts and passions and pities are going to instruct me — not a numbskull mass that believes one thing and does another," he declared. An ally in the fight was his friend. H. L. Mencken, who characterized the puritanism as "the haunting fear that someone, somewhere, may be happy."

After publication of "An American Tragedy" in 1925, Dreiser's interests drifted toward politics, where his achievements were dubious. In 1927, he joined other American writers and intellectuals invited to view Russia's progress under communism. He returned a believer. The American Communist Party rejected his first request for membership, however, because of fuzzy ideology and a capitalistic life-style. In the last year of his life, largely forgotten at home, but still widely read in Russia, Dreiser finally was admitted.

Dreiser's admirers view him as a raw genius — one whose greatness shines through clumsy, sometimes ungrammatical prose. Critic Alfred Kazin finds Dreiser's "broken and blindly searching" prose the perfect medium for the emotions of ordinary people. But as Mencken fondly pointed out, every reader of the Dreiser novels "must cherish astounding specimens" of bad writing.

Sinclair Lewis, on accepting the Nobel Prize in 1930, had this to say about the man he narrowly defeated for the award: "Usually unappreciated, often hounded, (Dreiser) has cleared the trail from . . . timidity and gentility in American fiction to honesty, boldness and passion for life. Without his pioneering, I doubt if any of us could, unless we liked to be sent to jail, seek to express life and beauty and terror."

Customers Are Happier

It's a matter of attitude. The old, broken-down equipment is the same but people by and large feel that service has improved since the city took over what is now called the Lincoln Transit System.

The system's new manager, Gerald Rae, notes a breakdown rate that approximates that of the old Lincoln City Lines and says "we have a continuous tow-in, something that goes on all day." But, Rae adds, "all I know is the passengers tell me that the service is better. The buses are keeping better schedules; the riders have more faith in them."

Riders have praised the new operation, which if short on workable equipment, is longer on cleanliness than its predecessor, which wanted to get out of the business in the worst way and did. A typical statement, summing up the change in ownership, came from a twice-a-day rider who said the buses are "less likely to be late than they were and they have definitely been cleaned up. Anything they did to the buses would be an improvement."

Everyone who uses the bus system is eagerly anticipating the future, however. New equipment. Hopefully, improved scheduling Special rates to encourage more use of the bus system.

Thirty-six new air-conditioned coaches will be ordered as soon as the Department of Transportation gives its final approval. Delivery is hoped for by February. The arrival of the new equipment will be a red letter day. But as Rae said. "New equipment is not the answer to good service. It's a help, but it's not the answer." Considering what it inherited, the Lincoln Transit System has come a long way in its brief existence.

Involvement Opposed

The picture becomes more confusing every day. The Supreme Court of South Vietnam, which rejected his candidacy two weeks ago, Saturday put Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky's name on the ballot for the presidential election that is scheduled to be held in October.

Sunday Ky, reiterating his charges that the election is being rigged by President Nguyen Van Thieu, said he will sit out the campaign, along with Gen. Duong Van Minh who pulled out of the race earlier. Pressure by the U.S. embassy in Saigon applied to Ky to make it a two-way race was to no avail. Ky hints darkly at the possibility of a coup. He has suggested that both he and Thieu resign and let the chairman of the South Vietnam senate take over the government and call new elections in which neither of the present officers would be a candidate. That seemed to be the only reasonable suggestion to come out of the political crises—the worst since the 1966 Buddhist uprisings and certainly one of the most embarrasing to the U.S.

This is just one more incident in a horribly unfortunate involvement. What the Vietnam war has done to the psychology of the American people is illustrated again by the latest Harris opinion poll.

People are against involvements abroad. According to Harris, when 10 possible trouble spots around the world were tested, in only two instances—the defense of this country itself and the protection of neighboring Canada—did majorities say the issue would justify going to war. Pluralities said that going to war might be called for if the issue involved Western Europe or Australia. But people in the sample were not interested in shedding American blood over Eastern Europe or the Middle East or a Castro-style revolution in Latin America or anywhere else. Sixty-one percent of the people asked agreed—as opposed to the 26 percent who disagreed and the 13 percent who were not sure — with the statement that "the U.S. has achieved little by going to war to save other countries and in the future we should let other countries defend themselves."

This is a definite change in the American sentiment that has prevailed for most of this century and it can be attributed to the Vietnam war.

British 'Progress' Destroying Earlier Charm Certain To Drive Away The Eager Tourist

LONDON—Maiden Lane is a narrow street, just a block long, on the south side of Covent Garden in central London. It is the sort of street that gives London its character—intimate, a little shabby, mixing commerce and homes, echoing history. Andrew Marvell lived there in the 17th Century, Voltaire for several years in the 18th.

Tourists are most likely to see Maiden Lane because of Rules Restaurant. Rules has been there since 1798, and looks it. There are red plush seats and bars tucked into odd corners, all very worn and cozy. One can imagine Dickens eating there, as he doubtless did. It is what a romantic tourist imagines when he visualizes dining in London.

These days every table at Rules has on it a red card politely advising the diners that, if the planning authorities of London have their way, Rules will shortly be plowed under. Literally. In fact, Maiden Lane will disappear to make way for a great new highway tunnel.

It is all part of a plan for the redevelopment of the Covent Garden area. Instead of its small-scale buildings around the central market, it will have a giant convention center, hotels, office blocks, parking garages.

Why is the Greater London Council pressing for redevelopment? Who wants it?

Certainly not the people who live and work in the Covent Garden area now: they are fighting a desperate rearguard action against the planning juggernaut. Certainly not the many thousands of Londoners who go to theaters or restaurants or the opera house in Covent Garden; they know the rich mixture of buildings now is superior to the likely result in the re-planned future.

The sad truth is that experience with rebuilding in postwar London gives one almost no hope of beauty or humanity in any large-scale project. There may be only one big contemporary building of architectural distinction, that designed for The Economist by Alison and Peter Smithson. As for the rest, the gross and dreary egg-crates that litter London now, their empty vulgarity almost makes Park Avenue in New York look good.

"London is being rebuilt by greed and under-achievers," Ada Louise Huxtable wrote in the New York Times recently after a visit here. No one could read Mrs. Huxtable's expert comments on what is happening to London without recognizing the truth in her insights—and shuddering.

Change is a law of life for cities as for societies; London cannot be frozen. But change used to be organic, gradual. That is what produced the richness of the London landscape, along with the creative geniuses who contributed to its designs. The difference now is that change comes wholesale, exchanging for life's variety a sterile uniformity.

So one asks again: Why? If everyone with eyes and feelings can see what giantism does to this city, why is it allowed to continue? The answer, of course, is in Mrs. Huxtable's word: greed. The huge office blocks look like visualizations of mammon because that is exactly what they are.

As in New York, so now in London there is more speculative profit to be made in flattening than in preserving and adapting, more in characterless towers than in architecture. The most grotesque example is a monstrous London building called Centre Point, totally unoccupied since it was built five years ago, yet highly profitable for its owner because he has been able to borrow on its zooming speculative value.

But all that is so only because society, through its laws, wills it to be. Britain does not have to encourage real estate speculation and destruction of one of the world's great urban landscapes through her tax laws and planning concepts.

Slowly but perceptibly Londoners are becoming aware of what is being done to their city—and to them—in the name of profit. The issue has been dramatized particularly by one factor, the mushroom growth of big new hotels because of a hotel construction subsidy program adopted by the late Labor government.

In quiet squares here and there, huge glass and concrete hotels suddenly rear up. They mostly look American and are evidently designed especially for well-to-do American visitors. That makes the hotels' presence the more grating to the people of London, who are beginning to feel like objects in a tourist's world.

The irony is that the tourists will not like it any better in the end. When Maiden Lane and Rules and Covent Garden have been improved out of existence, when Americans arrive in London to find themselves in concrete barracks with an ice machine in the corridor, they will see no point in coming.

Time For Repairs

Lincoln, Neb.

I am upset by the voiced of our labor leaders. Are these the same men who shout "un-American" at draft evaders? How are the union leaders' refusal to help America become any less "un-American"?

There must be other laborers who are willing to tighten their belts for 90 days because they love America more than the almighty dollar. I am concerned by these leaders. Why are they protesting so loudly? "He who is greedy of gain brings ruin on his own house." (Prov. 15, 27).

His house is ours, too, and I hope we can save it. At least we must take this chance and pray for God's help. "You have rocked the country and split it open; repair the cracks in it, for it is tottering." (Psalm 59,4.)

Swift Action

Lincoln, Neb.

All Lincolnites and employes of the Lincoln Regional Center should know of an incident that happened about a week ago. It occurred in the afternoon while this technician was on the ward by himself with 21 patients.

The patient fell and blacked out, losing complete consciousness, and no pulse nor respiration could be found. Had it not been for the ability of the technician on duty, Bobby Butler, the outcome could have been very serious. His immediate judgment was to perform resuscitation on the patient, and this he did, twice. Another patient was instrumental at the time of the emergency in notfying the proper authorities for additional assistance.

Let's get the record straight. The patient was revived by resuscitation and not strictly by oxygen, as the medical data states. Let's give credit where credit is due.

Many of us know and appreciate the feelings of humbleness of Bobby Butler. We know that our words are few and sometimes insignificant, but we do want Mr. Butler to know that we, his fellow workers, are mighty proud of him, the work he has done and is continuing to do. This is the feeling of all patients and his fellow workers at L.R.C.

To Your Good Health

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Would you discuss scoliosis? It would be good to give the warning signals so parents could save their children the ordeal of spinal fusion and months in a cast later on.—Mrs. J.D.

Scoliosis is a sidewise curvature of the spine. Ninety per cent of the cases have developed by adolescence, and the problem is more prevalent in girls, by about nine to one.

There are differing causes. It may be a congenital defect and has been seen and identified in young children. Polio used to cause a lot of cases because it caused an imbalance of the muscles in the back, drawing the spine out of alignment. That cause, of course, has been virtually eliminated now.

One theory of scoliosis that develops in adolescense is that it has to do with growth spurts, throwing the spine out of line. Injury, naturally, can cause it; so can infection involving the spine (especially tuberculolis) —but these are less common causes.

Anyway, there are several signs that raise a suspicion of scoliosis. One is a tilting of the shoulders or hip bone. A prominent shoulder blade is another. A faulty, slouched posture sometimes is a clue.

Another way, if you have any reason to suspect scoliosis, or if you just want to be on the safe side, is to have a youngster stand up straight. The vertebrae can be seen and easily felt. Normally they are in a straight vertical line. With scoliosis, a deviation from side to side will be apparent.

In a good many cases, mild scoliosis requires no treatment. Other cases can be corrected by exercises to strengthen the muscles of the back, and sometimes a brace may be helpful.

Only extreme cases require spinal fusion or months in a cast or other surgical treatment.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I noticed an item in your column, someone wanting to know if brown-eyed parents could have blue-eyed children. My mother and father both had brown eyes, and they had 10 children, five with blue eyes and five with brown. The youngest were twin girls, and one had blue eyes and the other brown. I don't suppose you will print this, but it might settle the minds of a lot of people. — Mrs. R.E.S.

Why shouldn't I print it? While it's not common, there's no reason why brown-eyed people of suitable heredity can't have blue-eyed youngsters.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is there any cure for hives: I break out all over with them and my lips and face swell up. I have been to several doctors but they don't help me. — Mrs. E.P.

Hives is an allergic reaction — and finding out what you are sensitive to is the problem. It isn't often easy. The only reasonable advice I can offer is that you go to one doctor instead of several (preferably an allergist) and accept the fact that it may take more than a little searching to find out what is causing your hives.

Only then are you likely to make any headway in preventing the trouble. Keep a diary of foods eaten 12 to 24 hours before the rash breaks out. This may give you a clue if its is due to food.

☆ ☆ ☆

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have found out I have low blood sugar, and been put on a diet of no sugar. Someone I know who also has it has to eat sugar. Which is right. I blacked out a few weeks ago. Would this cause it:—Mrs. C.V.

The person with episodes of low blood sugar doesn't need MORE sugar. He needs a better regulated sugar level, without a lot of sharp ups and downs.

Eating sugar when the blood sugar level is low will, temporarily, raise the level. Unfortunately, it is followed by a dip to a low level—and the trouble repeats iteself.

When you avoid sugar in your diet, you substitute foods that are converted slowly into sugar and thus avoid the ups and downs.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What can be done for diverticula in the throat: My husband is bothered by this trouble — gurgling noises while eating, choking when swallowing. sneezing food at table, all of which is very annoying and embarrassing. Sometimes his pills get caught in his throat and are coughed up hours later. There must be some help. — Mrs. H. P.

A diverticulum (or several) can occur anywhere in the digestive tract, although not often in the area you mention — which is, evidently, in the upper gullet. It is called Zencker's diverticulum.

A diverticulum is a sort of bulge or pouch. Your husband's must be quite large to trap food and pills. Surgical correction is the only relief. Once formed, a diverticulum does not get smaller spontaneously.

☆ ☆ ☆

Dear Sir: I want to thank Dr. Thosteson for saving my life. Some weeks ago a column appeared on breast cancer. Having had some lumps in my breast for months, I noticed that one was a "hard, marble-like lump" as the article described. That prompted me to consult a doctor, which resulted in removal of my breast because of three malignant tumors. Thank you. — Mrs. W.H.S.

Praise be!

Dr. Thosteson welcomes all reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters.

Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

The Fox Lake institution is constructed and operated to get as far away as possible from traditional approaches to the correctional process. It allows its inmates a maximum of freedom, encouraging the development of personal responsibility and pride.

The Fox Lake operation includes a broad staff in many areas such as education, sociology, psychiatry, etc., to try to build in inmates the confidence, pride and ability that are essential if they are to stay outside of prison once they serve their time. To date, the operation has shown a far less return of released inmates than does the average prison.

There is one hooker in the Fox Lake operation; it is only a part of total state correctional operation. If Nebraska were to follow the example of Fox Lake, it would need two prisons rather than one.

Nebraska could not provide such an institution as is found at Fox Lake and have its prison problems solved. Inmates at Fox Lake have been carefully screened, placement there being contingent upon a high potential by the individual.

★

Those prisoners who are judged not to be ready for Fox Lake and its modern approach are housed in another standard institution, with maximum security and all that goes with the idea of incarceration and protection of the public.

This means that a Fox Lake approach tends to double a state's prison physical plant. Additionally, Fox Lake involved a $9 million outlay over nearly 10 years.

Is Nebraska ready to put that kind of investment into a new prison which aims far more at rehabilitation than at incarceration? We doubt that Nebraska is ready for this but, hopefully, it will become ready in the not too distant future.

Nebraska now lacks both the physical plant and staff that are needed to do the kind of job that is being done in Wisconsin. But Wisconsin thinks its program is paying off in terms of the people it is saving from future reliance upon public support.

It should be remembered that while prison is punishment for criminal deeds, the keeping of the prisoners is still a public expense. It is the public that must pay for keeping men and women behind prison walls.

One of the keys to the Fox Lake operation is found in the fact that the vast majority of those who commit a crime against society come from poor backgrounds. These people have never been in the kind of environment that would encourage them along the path of good citizenship.

The presumption of a good rehabilitation program is that, given the right environment, many prison inmates can be turned into productive members of society. This is a point often overlooked by those who downgrade rehabilitation.

What such people do is to fail to recognize the basic reasons behind so much of our crime. Very few people are criminals as a matter of pure choice, but rather, are the products of a poor environment.

Nebraska has not had such a bad experience as San Quentin but neither has it come anywhere near the advanced thinking shown at Fox Lake. We don't want the former but we do need the latter and have already lost a lot of valuable time in trying to get there.

Theodore Dreiser Remains Forgotten Son Of Indiana

WASHINGTON — Theodore Dreiser was never a favorite in his native state of Indiana. When he died in 1945, the Indianapolis Star commented: "His wails about the bitter cruelty and brutality of life failed to impress this literary sector, where life usually ran in conventional channels . . . The late Paul Dreiser, a brother, probably will be remembered much longer in Hoosierdom." On the first centennial of Dreiser's birth, the prediction is holding true.

At the entrance of Terre Haute, a sign reads: "The home of Paul Dresser, author of the state song 'On the Banks of the Wabash.'" There is no mention of Theodore Dreiser, author of "An American Tragedy," "Sister Carrie," and other major American novels.

A member of the city's Chamber of Commerce told Editorial Research Reports that Hoosiers no longer harbor any "hard feelings" about Dreiser's left-wing inclinations, but the composer of sentimental ballads is still more popular with them. He said Indiana State University's two-day centennial program will probably attract more out-of-town scholars than local people.

Dreiser shocked the folks back home and many others with his first novel, "Sister Carrie," published in 1901. The story of a small-town girl who runs away to the big city, takes a lover and ends up an unrepentant actress strikes the modern reader as hopelessly tame. But by the prim standards of that day, biographer W. A. Swanberg explains, the writer was "a greater potential menace to pure American ideals than Emma Goldman, who was preaching anarchism across the land."

Public hostility to his realism led Dreiser into endless battles with publisher and censors. "My inner instincts and passions and pities are going to instruct me — not a numbskull mass that believes one thing and does another," he declared. An ally in the fight was his friend, H. L. Mencken, who characterized the puritanism as "the haunting fear that someone, somewhere, may be happy."

After publication of "An American Tragedy" in 1925, Dreiser's interests drifted toward politics, where his achievements were dubious. In 1927, he joined other American writers and intellectuals invited to view Russia's progress under communism. He returned a believer. The American Communist Party rejected his first request for membership, however, because of fuzzy ideology and a capitalistic life-style. In the last year of his life, largely forgotten at home, but still widely read in Russia, Dreiser finally was admitted.

Dreiser's admirers view him as a raw genius — one whose greatness shines through clumsy, sometimes ungrammatical prose. Critic Alfred Kazin finds Dreiser's "broken and blindly searching" prose the perfect medium for the emotions of ordinary people. But as Mencken fondly pointed out, every reader of the Dreiser novels "must cherish astounding specimens" of bad writing.

Sinclair Lewis, on accepting the Nobel Prize in 1930, had this to say about the man he narrowly defeated for the award: "Usually unappreciated, often hounded, (Dreiser) has cleared the trail from . . . timidity and gentility in American fiction to honesty, boldness and passion for life. Without his pioneering, I doubt if any of us could, unless we liked to be sent to jail, seek to express life and beauty and terror."

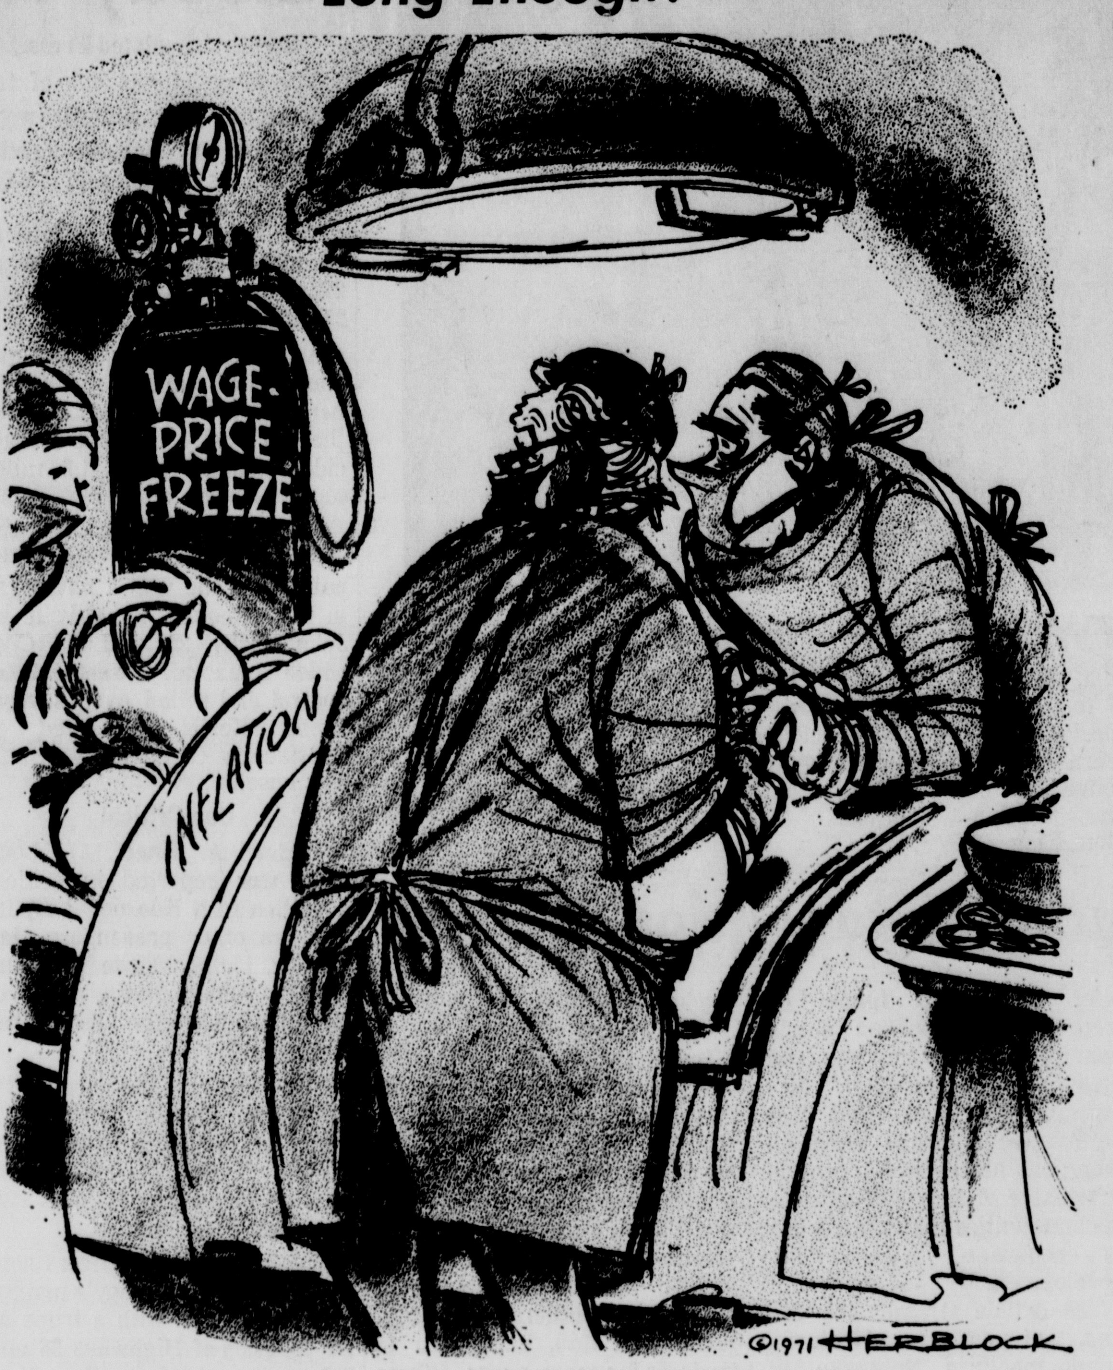
'You Sure That Anesthetic Will Hold Long Enough?'



Customers Are Happier

It's a matter of attitude. The old, broken-down equipment is the same but people by and large feel that service has improved since the city took over what is now called the Lincoln Transit System.

The system's new manager, Gerald Rae, notes a breakdown rate that approximates that of the old Lincoln City Lines and says "we have a continuous tow-in, something that goes on all day." But, Rae adds, "all I know is the passengers tell me that the service is better. The buses are keeping better schedules; the riders have more faith in them."

Riders have praised the new operation, which if short on workable equipment, is longer on cleanliness than its predecessor, which wanted to get out of the business in the worst way and did. A typical statement, summing up the change in ownership, came from a twice-a-day rider who said the buses are "less likely to be late than they were and they have definitely been cleaned up. Anything they did to the buses would be an improvement."

Everyone who uses the bus system is eagerly anticipating the future, however. New equipment. Hopefully, improved scheduling Special rates to encourage more use of the bus system.

Thirty-six new air-conditioned coaches will be ordered as soon as the Department of Transportation gives its final approval. Delivery is hoped for by February. The arrival of the new equipment will be a red letter day. But as Rae said, "New equipment is not the answer to good service. It's a help, but it's not the answer." Considering what it inherited, the Lincoln Transit System has come a long way in its brief existence.

Involvement Opposed

The picture becomes more confusing every day. The Supreme Court of South Vietnam, which rejected his candidacy two weeks ago, Saturday put Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky's name on the ballot for the presidential election that is scheduled to be held in October.

Sunday Ky, reiterating his charges that the election is being rigged by President Nguyen Van Thieu, said he will sit out the campaign, along with Gen. Duong Van Minh who pulled out of the race earlier. Pressure by the U.S. embassy in Saigon applied to Ky to make it a two-way race was to no avail. Ky hints darkly at the possibility of a coup. He has suggested that both he and Thieu resign and let the chairman of the South Vietnam senate take over the government and call new elections in which neither of the present officers would be a candidate. That seemed to be the only reasonable suggestion to come out of the political crises—the worst since the 1966 Buddhist uprisings and certainly one of the most embarrasing to the U.S.

This is just one more incident in a horribly unfortunate involvement. What the Vietnam war has done to the psychology of the American people is illustrated again by the latest Harris opinion poll.

People are against involvements abroad. According to Harris, when 10 possible trouble spots around the world were tested, in only two instances—the defense of this country itself and the protection of neighboring Canada—did majorities say the issue would justify going to war. Pluralities said that going to war might be called for if the issue involved Western Europe or Australia. But people in the sample were not interested in shedding American blood over Eastern Europe or the Middle East or a Castro-style revolution in Latin America or anywhere else. Sixty-one percent of the people asked agreed—as opposed to the 26 percent who disagreed and the 13 percent who were not sure — with the statement that "the U.S. has achieved little by going to war to save other countries and in the future we should let other countries defend themselves."

This is a definite change in the American sentiment that has prevailed for most of this century and it can be attributed to the Vietnam war.

British 'Progress' Destroying Earlier Charm Certain To Drive Away The Eager Tourist

LONDON—Maiden Lane is a narrow street, just a block long, on the south side of Covent Garden in central London. It is the sort of street that gives London its character—intimate, a little shabby, mixing commerce and homes, echoing history. Andrew Marvell lived there in the 17th Century, Voltaire for several years in the 18th.

Tourists are most likely to see Maiden Lane because of Rules Restaurant. Rules has been there since 1798, and looks it. There are red plush seats and bars tucked into odd corners, all very worn and cozy. One can imagine Dickens eating there, as he doubtless did. It is what a romantic tourist imagines when he visualizes dining in London.

These days every table at Rules has on it a red card politely advising the diners that, if the planning authorities of London have their way, Rules will shortly be plowed under. Literally. In fact, Maiden Lane will disappear to make way for a great new highway tunnel.

It is all part of a plan for the redevelopment of the Covent Garden area. Instead of its small-scale buildings around the central market, it will have a giant convention center, hotels, office blocks, parking garages.

Why is the Greater London Council pressing for redevelopment? Who wants it?

Certainly not the people who live and work in the Covent Garden area now; they are fighting a desperate rearguard action against the planning juggernaut. Certainly not the many thousands of Londoners who go to theaters or restaurants or the opera house in Covent Garden; they know the rich mixture of buildings now is superior to the likely result in the re-planned future.

☆ ☆ ☆

The sad truth is that experience with rebuilding in postwar London gives one almost no hope of beauty or humanity in any large-scale project. There may be only one big contemporary building of architectural distinction, that designed for The Economist by Alison and Peter Smithson. As for the rest, the gross and dreary egg-crates that litter London now, their empty vulgarity almost makes Park Avenue in New York look good.

"London is being rebuilt by greed and under-achievers," Ada Louise Huxtable wrote in the New York Times recently after a visit here. No one could read Mrs. Huxtable's expert comments on what is happening to London without recognizing the truth in her insights—and shuddering.

Change is a law of life for cities as for societies; London cannot be frozen. But change used to be organic, gradual. That is what produced the richness of the London landscape, along with the creative geniuses who contributed to its designs. The difference now is that change comes wholesale, exchanging for life's variety a sterile uniformity.

So one asks again: Why? If everyone with eyes and feelings can see what giantism does to this city, why is it allowed to continue? The answer, of course, is in Mrs. Huxtable's word: greed. The huge office blocks look like visualizations of mammon because that is exactly what they are.

As in New York, so now in London there is more speculative profit to be made in flattening than in preserving and adapting, more in characterless towers than in architecture. The most grotesque example is a monstrous London building called Centre Point, totally unoccupied since it was built five years ago, yet highly profitable for its owner because he has been able to borrow on its zooming speculative value.

But all that is so only because society, through its laws, wills it to be. Britain does not have to encourage real estate speculation and destruction of one of the world's great urban landscapes through her tax laws and planning concepts.

Slowly but perceptibly Londoners are becoming aware of what is being done to their city—and to them—in the name of profit. The issue has been dramatized particularly by one factor, the mushroom growth of big new hotels because of a hotel construction subsidy program adopted by the late Labor government.

In quiet squares here and there, huge glass and concrete hotels suddenly rear up. They mostly look American and are evidently designed especially for well-to-do American visitors. That makes the hotels' presence the more grating to the people of London, who are beginning to feel like objects in a tourist's world.

The irony is that the tourists will not like it any better in the end. When Maiden Lane and Rules and Covent Garden have been improved out of existence, when Americans arrive in London to find themselves in concrete barracks with an ice machine in the corridor, they will see no point in coming.

Time For Repairs

Lincoln, Neb.

I am upset by the voiced of our labor leaders. Are these the same men who shout "un-American" at draft evaders? How are the union leaders' refusal to help America become any less "un-American"?

There must be other laborers who are willing to tighten their belts for 90 days because they love America more than the almighty dollar. I am concerned by these leaders. Why are they protesting so loudly? "He who is greedy of gain brings ruin on his own house." (Prov. 15, 27).

His house is ours, too, and I hope we can save it. At least we must take this chance and pray for God's help. "You have rocked the country and split it open; repair the cracks in it, for it is tottering." (Psalm 59,4.)

Swift Action

Lincoln, Neb.

All Lincolnites and employes of the Lincoln Regional Center should know of an incident that happened about a week ago. It occurred in the afternoon while this technician was on the ward by himself with 21 patients.

The patient fell and blacked out, losing complete consciousness, and no pulse nor respiration could be found. Had it not been for the ability of the technician on duty, Bobby Butler, the outcome could have been very serious. His immediate judgment was to perform resuscitation on the patient, and this he did, twice. Another patient was instrumental at the time of the emergency in notfying the proper authorities for additional assistance.

Let's get the record straight. The patient was revived by resuscitation and not strictly by oxygen, as the medical data states. Let's give credit where credit is due.

Many of us know and appreciate the feelings of humbleness of Bobby Butler. We know that our words are few and sometimes insignificant, but we do want Mr. Butler to know that we, his fellow workers, are mighty proud of him, the work he has done and is continuing to do. This is the feeling of all patients and his fellow workers at L.R.C.

GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

To Your Good Health

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Would you discuss scoliosis? It would be good to give the warning signals so parents could save their children the ordeal of spinal fusion and months in a cast later on.—Mrs. J.D.

Scoliosis is a sidewise curvature of the spine. Ninety per cent of the cases have developed by adolescence, and the problem is more prevalent in girls, by about nine to one.

There are differing causes. It may be a congenital defect and has been seen and identified in young children. Polio used to cause a lot of cases because it caused an imbalance of the muscles in the back, drawing the spine out of alignment. That cause, of course, has been virtually eliminated now.

One theory of scoliosis that develops in adolescense is that it has to do with growth spurts, throwing the spine out of line. Injury, naturally, can cause it: so can infection involving the spine (especially tuberculolis) —but these are less common causes.

Anyway, there are several signs that raise a suspicion of scoliosis. One is a tilting of the shoulders or hip bone. A prominent shoulder blade is another. A faulty, slouched posture sometimes is a clue.

Another way, if you have any reason to suspect scoliosis, or if you just want to be on the safe side, is to have a youngster stand up straight. The vertebrae can be seen and easily felt. Normally they are in a straight vertical line. With scoliosis, a deviation from side to side will be apparent.

In a good many cases, mild scoliosis requires no treatment. Other cases can be corrected by exercises to strengthen the muscles of the back, and sometimes a brace may be helpful.

Only extreme cases require spinal fusion or months in a cast or other surgical treatment.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I noticed an item in your column, someone wanting to know if brown-eyed parents could have blue-eyed children. My mother and father both had brown eyes, and they had 10 children, five with blue eyes and five with brown. The youngest were twin girls, and one had blue eyes and the other brown. I don't suppose you will print this, but it might settle the minds of a lot of people. — Mrs. R.E.S.

Why shouldn't I print it? While it's not common, there's no reason why brown-eyed people of suitable heredity can't have blue-eyed youngsters.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is there any cure for hives: I break out all over with them and my lips and face swell up. I have been to several doctors but they don't help me. — Mrs. E.P.

Hives is an allergic reaction — and finding out what you are sensitive to is the problem. It isn't often easy. The only reasonable advice I can offer is that you go to one doctor instead of several (preferably an allergist) and accept the fact that it may take more than a little searching to find out what is causing your hives.

Only then are you likely to make any headway in preventing the trouble. Keep a diary of foods eaten 12 to 24 hours before the rash breaks out. This may give you a clue if its is due to food.

☆ ☆ ☆

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have found out I have low blood sugar, and been put on a diet of no sugar. Someone I know who also has it has to eat sugar. Which is right. I blacked out a few weeks ago. Would this cause it:—Mrs. C.V.

The person with episodes of low blood sugar doesn't need MORE sugar. He needs a better regulated sugar level, without a lot of sharp ups and downs.

Eating sugar when the blood sugar level is low will, temporarily, raise the level. Unfortunately, it is followed by a dip to a low level—and the trouble repeats iteself.

When you avoid sugar in your diet, you substitute foods that are converted slowly into sugar and thus avoid the ups and downs.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What can be done for diverticula in the throat: My husband is bothered by this trouble — gurgling noises while eating, choking when swallowing, sneezing food at table, all of which is very annoying and embarrassing. Sometimes his pills get caught in his throat and are coughed up hours later. There must be some help. — Mrs. H. P.

A diverticulum (or several) can occur anywhere in the digestive tract, although not often in the area you mention — which is, evidently, in the upper gullet. It is called Zencker's diverticulum.

A diverticulum is a sort of bulge or pouch. Your husband's must be quite large to trap food and pills. Surgical correction is the only relief. Once formed, a diverticulum does not get smaller spontaneously.

☆ ☆ ☆

Dear Sir: I want to thank Dr. Thosteson for saving my life. Some weeks ago a column appeared on breast cancer. Having had some lumps in my breast for months, I noticed that one was a "hard, marble-like lump" as the article described. That prompted me to consult a doctor, which resulted in removal of my breast because of three malignant tumors. Thank you. — Mrs. W.H.S.

Praise be!

Dr. Thosteson welcomes all reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Indians Charge Unfair Police Tactics And Lack Of Protection

High School graduation in protest of the "fact" that there hasn't been an Indian graduated from the school in 30 years. The validity of the "fact" is hard to ascertain. School officials say there have been Indian graduates; Indians say there haven't.

Other Reports

Other reports started circulating that city officials abuse the policy of letting Indians work off their fines on the city's street crews, and that police officers arrest Indians solely because the crew is minus a laborer.

Charges have been made that Indians are being beaten in the jails and allowed to fight among themselves until bloody handprints can be seen on cell walls. The Indians say that not only can they not protect themselves from the police, but the police will not protect them from other law breakers.

Cleo Hererra is an Indian woman, the mother of six, who has lived in Alliance for 16 years. She claims it is impossible for an Indian citizen to get due process of law or police protection in Alliance.

"If an Indian raises his voice in a cafe — that's assuming they'll even let him in the door — the proprietor calls the cops and the Indian is arrested for drunkenness," she explained.

Son Was Beaten

Two months ago, according to Mrs. Hererra, her 11-year-old son was beaten by two white youths, aged 16 and 17, and robbed of 80 cents. The boy was unconscious for two hours and required medical attention, but though he could identify his assailants, the police did not investigate.

Mrs. Hererra whose father hanged himself in the city jail in 1962, thinks the jail situation and other Alliance problems should be investigated. The Indians, who equate silence with dignity have been suffering in silence too long, she said, and need something that will force them to speak out.

Mark Monroe, a Rosebud Sioux who in 1969 organized Alliance's American Indian Committee, thinks otherwise. Any problem between whites and Indians is a "local problem that should be solved by local people" he says, contending that Alliance Indians make most of their own problems by fighting among themselves.

"Communication between Indians is the biggest problem. The Indian has always been a warlike man, we fight like cats and dogs. White people have been concerned about the American Indian, but what we've all forgotten is that the Indian does not care about himself."

Monroe said when he came to Alliance in 1941, there were "No Indians Allowed" signs posted all over town. "Now, though many places still won't take Indians, the signs are all down . . . we're finally beginning to break the barriers and we will if we don't meet with outside interference that will only create tension."

Monroe's patience, along with his cooperation and with expressed confidence in the town's law enforcement officials, has aroused some hostility among his Indian brothers. Some refer to him as an "apple"—red outside, white inside.

Should the Alliance controversy come to a state or a federal investigation, at least one townsman seems to be braced for it. That's City Police Chief Verlin Hutton.

Hutton is a veteran law officer of more than 30 years in the Sandhills' "Indian country" who smiles only slightly when he says he has the ulcers to prove it. He admits the Indian jail deaths were unhappy incidents but feels that he and his men have been blamed for being the "result, but not the cause" of the problem.

Problems Known

Hutton doesn't deny there are problems in giving the jail prisoners proper supervision, but keeping an officer employed as a jailer would reduce police protection on the streets, he said.

A closed circuit TV system is also unacceptable, he said, because monitors would most likely be the women who will be employed as dispatchers when the city's new 911 system goes into effect.

"I can't have women watching those men and the sex acts that go on in the drunk tank," he explained. Likewise, the chief said he didn't want men observing women in their cell.

As for police brutality and horror chambers in the city jail, Hutton thinks most Indians regard the jail, with its white walls and turquoise-colored bars, as "a place where you at least get a good hot meal and a bed to sleep in." Because of this, many Indians welcome arrest, he said.

LIFE BEGINS AT FORTY:

Lady Converts Old Railroad Car Into Cozy Retirement Cottage

By ROBERT PETERSON

A few months ago I saw a newspaper ad saying a railroad syndicate in Chicago was auctioning off a dozen old passenger cars. It occurred to me at the time that if I lived closer to the Windy City I'd like to buy one, have it towed to my backyard, and fix it up as a guest cottage.

Apparently others have been attracted by the housing potentials of old railroad cars. Here's a clipping someone has sent me about Mrs. Emily Cain, 78, of Stebbing Green, England. Several years ago she learned that several old passenger cars were being sold by the British railroads, so she attended the sale and bought one for $1,200. Then she paid a farmer $200 to tow it with a team of horses to a country lot she owned 40 miles from London.

A stone mason helped her cement the car onto a brick foundation, and then she set about converting it into a small home complete with bedroom, living room, kitchen, and bath. She installed heating facilities, and found a farmer to thatch the roof—since she'd always hankered to live under thatch

"I adore my retirement cottage," she was quoted as saying. "It's wonderfully sturdy and cozy, and people love to come see it. Not a bad investment either, for I've been offered five times what it cost from folks who'd love to buy it from me."

Do you recall how important the Dionne quintuplets were in the 1930s? They were major celebrities and their appealing faces smiled at us from countless magazine and newspaper stories. Those memories are still so vivid that many of us continue to think of them as babies

But time has raced by. Last month the surviving Dionne quintuplets celebrated their 37th birthday. Sadly, only three of them are still living. But can they be 37 years old? Preposterous!

We hear a lot about unemployment But there's never a shortage of jobs for those with certificates as practical or registered nurses. Since young women are difficult to recruit for nursing careers many middle-aged men are becoming interested in nursing careers.

In New York City, for instance, police and firemen can retire on pensions after 20 years of service. Upon retirement they're free to enter other lines of endeavor. A recent report showed that currently 36 policemen and 54 firemen, due to retire in a couple of years, are part-time students at nursing schools. They attend 13 hours of weekly instruction, including ward training under supervision.

When they retire from their municipal jobs they'll be eligible for jobs as nurses. And nurses do pretty well these days. In New York City, for instance, these ex-police and firemen will start work as nurses earning $9,000 a year—in addition to drawing half-pay pensions from their previous occupations!

Teamsters Local Returns To Work

Lehighton, Pa! (UPI) — Citing President Nixon's wage-price freeze, about 150 striking Teamsters voted to return to their jobs at Interstate Trucking without a new contract.

Local 773 President Al Abruzi said the Teamsters voted 96-28 to end the strike which began in July. He said the union has not accepted the company's latest offer but negotiations will continue.

Abruzi said any new proposal must have a retroactive wage clause to be acceptable.

Indians Charge Unfair Police Tactics And Lack Of Protection

High School graduation in protest of the "fact" that there hasn't been an Indian graduated from the school in 30 years. The validity of the "fact" is hard to ascertain. School officials say there have been Indian graduates; Indians say there haven't.

Other Reports

Other reports started circulating that city officials abuse the policy of letting Indians work off their fines on the city's street crews, and that police officers arrest Indians solely because the crew is minus a laborer.

Charges have been made that Indians are being beaten in the jails and allowed to fight among themselves until bloody handprints can be seen on cell walls. The Indians say that not only can they not protect themselves from the police, but the police will not protect them from other law breakers.

Cleo Hererra is an Indian woman, the mother of six, who has lived in Alliance for 16 years. She claims it is impossible for an Indian citizen to get due process of law or police protection in Alliance.

"If an Indian raises his voice in a cafe — that's assuming they'll even let him in the door — the proprietor calls the cops and the Indian is arrested for drunkenness," she explained.

Son Was Beaten

Two months ago, according to Mrs. Hererra, her 11-year-old son was beaten by two white youths, aged 16 and 17, and robbed of 80 cents. The boy was unconscious for two hours and required medical attention, but though he could identify his assailants, the police did not investigate.

Mrs. Hererra whose father hanged himself in the city jail in 1962, thinks the jail situation and other Alliance problems should be investigated. The Indians, who equate silence with dignity have been suffering in silence too long, she said, and need something that will force them to speak out.

Mark Monroe, a Rosebud Sioux who in 1969 organized Alliance's American Indian Committee, thinks otherwise. Any problem between whites and Indians is a "local problem that should be solved by local people" he says, contending that Alliance Indians make most of their own problems by fighting among themselves.

"Communication between Indians is the biggest problem. The Indian has always been a warlike man, we fight like cats and dogs. White people have been concerned about the American Indian, but what we've all forgotten is that the Indian does not care about himself."

Monroe said when he came to Alliance in 1941, there were "No Indians Allowed" signs posted all over town. "Now, though many places still won't take Indians, the signs are all down . . . we're finally beginning to break the barriers and we will if we don't meet with outside interference that will only create tension."

Monroe's patience, along with his cooperation and with expressed confidence in the town's law enforcement officials, has aroused some hostility among his Indian brothers. Some refer to him as an "apple"—red outside, white inside.

Should the Alliance controversy come to a state or a federal investigation, at least one townsman seems to be braced for it. That's City Police Chief Verlin Hutton.

Hutton is a veteran law officer of more than 30 years in the Sandhills' "Indian country" who smiles only slightly when he says he has the ulcers to prove it. He admits the Indian jail deaths were unhappy incidents but feels that he and his men have been blamed for being the "result, but not the cause" of the problem.

Problems Known

Hutton doesn't deny there are problems in giving the jail prisoners proper supervision, but keeping an officer employed as a jailer would reduce police protection on the streets, he said.

A closed circuit TV system is also unacceptable, he said, because monitors would most likely be the women who will be employed as dispatchers when the city's new 911 system goes into effect.

"I can't have women watching those men and the sex acts that go on in the drunk tank," he explained. Likewise, the chief said he didn't want men observing women in their cell.

As for police brutality and horror chambers in the city jail, Hutton thinks most Indians regard the jail, with its white walls and turquoise-colored bars, as "a place where you at least get a good hot meal and a bed to sleep in." Because of this, many Indians welcome arrest, he said.

LIFE BEGINS AT FORTY:

Lady Converts Old Railroad Car Into Cozy Retirement Cottage

By ROBERT PETERSON

A few months ago I saw a newspaper ad saying a railroad syndicate in Chicago was auctioning off a dozen old passenger cars. It occurred to me at the time that if I lived closer to the Windy City I'd like to buy one, have it towed to my backyard, and fix it up as a guest cottage.

Apparently others have been attracted by the housing potentials of old railroad cars. Here's a clipping someone has sent me about Mrs. Emily Cain, 78, of Stebbing Green, England. Several years ago she learned that several old passenger cars were being sold by the British railroads, so she attended the sale and bought one for $1,200. Then she paid a farmer $200 to tow it with a team of horses to a country lot she owned 40 miles from London.

A stone mason helped her cement the car onto a brick foundation, and then she set about converting it into a small home complete with bedroom, living room, kitchen, and bath. She installed heating facilities, and found a farmer to thatch the roof—since she'd always hankered to live under thatch.

"I adore my retirement cottage," she was quoted as saying. "It's wonderfully sturdy and cozy, and people love to come see it. Not a bad investment either, for I've been offered five times what it cost from folks who'd love to buy it from me."

Do you recall how important the Dionne quintuplets were in the 1930s? They were major celebrities and their appealing faces smiled at us from countless magazine and newspaper stories. Those memories are still so vivid that many of us continue to think of them as babies.

But time has raced by. Last month the surviving Dionne quintuplets celebrated their 37th birthday. Sadly, only three of them are still living. But can they be 37 years old? Preposterous!

We hear a lot about unemployment. But there's never a shortage of jobs for those with certificates as practical or registered nurses. Since young women are difficult to recruit for nursing careers many middle-aged men are becoming interested in nursing careers.

In New York City, for instance, police and firemen can retire on pensions after 20 years of service. Upon retirement they're free to enter other lines of endeavor. A recent report showed that currently 36 policemen and 54 firemen, due to retire in a couple of years, are part-time students at nursing schools. They attend 13 hours of weekly instruction, including ward training under supervision.

When they retire from their municipal jobs they'll be eligible for jobs as nurses. And nurses do pretty well these days. In New York City, for instance, these ex-police and firemen will start work as nurses earning $9,000 a year—in addition to drawing half-pay pensions from their previous occupations!

Courtesy Compliments Bride-Elect

The last few busy weeks before the bride walks down the aisle are often made busier—and more relaxed—by the traditional bridal showers that enable the bride-elect to spend a few hours with her friends and relatives.

One popular soon-to-be bride who has been kept busy with parties in her honor is Miss Rita Irene Duhachek, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Duhachek of Newman Grove, whose marriage to Kenneth Eugene Holland, Jr., son of Dr. and Mrs. Kenneth E. Holland, will be solemnized on Saturday, Aug. 28.

Miss Duhachek was honored at a miscellaneous shower on Wednesday evening, Aug. 18. Hostesses for the party were Mrs. Frank White and Mrs. Herman Brockmeier.

TOWN TALK

The talk this morning is about guests who fall into two categories — those who already are in town — and those who soon will be arriving. It well could be that we might have to postpone news of those who are about to come until another day — tomorrow, maybe.

* * *

We had a glimpse of a familiar face that goes with a name well known in Lincoln — Mrs. A. Q. Schimmel of Tucson, Ariz. Mrs. Schimmel is the guest of her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Irwin Chesen.

* * *

And arriving last Sunday from Washington, D.C., were Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Lampert and their son, Peter, who are spending several days as the guests of Mr. Lampert's mother, Mrs. W. H. Linn who, by the way, accompanied her son and his family back to Lincoln after a visit in Washington — and Mrs. Lampert's aunt, Mrs. James E. Lawrence.

Mrs. Lampert will be remembered in Lincoln as the former Sidney Ann Gardner, daughter of the late Col. and Mrs. Walter J. Gardner — and a Kappa Alpha Theta at Nebraska.

Vacations are such a treat — they enable the entire family to be together and travel and have fun as a unit. We have news of family vacations this morning — and we also have news of another brand of very special treat.

The special treat we were going to tell you about is a birthday treat — and the party will take place later on today.

The guest of honor is Allen Waltke, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Waltke of Wedgewood Manor, who will celebrate his eighth birthday today. The party will take the form of a guest appearance on Cartoon Corral, and the birthday boy's guests on the TV show will be his friends and relatives.

Included in the party plans for the third grader will be his brother, Tom; his cousins Jennifer, Susan, and Jill Fager; his friends Kenny Kempf, Theresa Olsen, Tony Koester, Dennis Steeves, Jackie Putlak, and Jimmy Carson; and Mrs. Rhen J. Dobbs of Beatrice, his grandmother.

Another special guest will be Allen's aunt, Mrs. Howard Fager, whose birthday just happens to fall on the same day.

After the special appearance on Cartoon Carnival, Allen and his guests will be treated to cake and ice cream.

Home is where the heart is, so they say, and it is also often the scene of many happy memories. Memories grow when guests come to visit, and being host and hostess can be most joyous—even when the premises do get a big close-knit.

Mr. and Mrs. John Parks of Country Club Plaza and their seven children—Steve, Tim, Mike, Tom, Scott, Susan and Dan—greeted some very special guests not too long ago. They were Mr. Parks' two brothers and sisters-in-law and their families. Mr. and Mrs. Walter Parks of Anna, Ill. arrived first with their two children, Floyd and David.

The next arrivals were Mr. and Mrs. Roger Parks of Mowaaqua, Ill., with their two children Jeff and Julie. The visitors departed on Monday, but that was not the end of the house guest list for the Parks family.

The next guest was from a greater distance, Aston, Oxford, England. She was Mrs. Rose Macdonald. The reunion was a happy one, since it has been seven years since the Parks and Mrs. Macdonald have been together. Mr. and Mrs. Parks and their children, you see, resided in England while Mr. Parks was a pilot in the U.S. Air Force, and Mrs. Macdonald was their nursemaid.

Apparently the mountains claim the prize this summer for the place Lincoln residents visited most. But then, on the other hand, some of the suburban residents would rather spend their time near the wide rolling ocean. Whichever vacation spots draw the bids, we are sure that they are only a part of another great summer that will end all too soon for many of the vacationing children!

Kessler Heights residents, Mr. and Mrs. Royce Holtgrewe and their two daughters, Robin and Ronda abandoned their home front recently for Colorado and the high-altitude, breath-taking Colorado Rockies.

Among the "must" stop-offs for the Nebraska travelers were Estes Park and Rocky Mountain National Park.

Their mountain vacation trip lost altitude as they traveled in a north-easterly direction and returned home to Nebraska.

Camping seems to be the preferred lifestyle this summer as more and more of the suburban families are taking to the road, bypassing flashy motels and restaurants and setting up house for a time in campers and tents; enjoying home cooked meals straight from a cookstove, and meeting other campers and exchanging adventures.

Meadow Lane residents Mr. and Mrs. David Stoker and their two children Nancy and Dennis boarded their camper and headed for the ocean.

Their camp-along excursion took them through the Kentucky Hills on into South Carolina where the family finally met their destination at Little Beach along the Atlantic Ocean shoreline.

Their return trip brought them home to Lincoln recently after a wonderful two weeks.

Sometimes committment necessitates separation. Such was the case for Mr. and Mrs. Larry Goettsch of Eastborough. During the first part of this month, Mr. Goettsch packed his bags for Fort Carson, Colo., where he spent two weeks at National Guard summer camp. While Mrs. Goettsch and their daughter, Stephanie, could not join Mr. Goettsch, they did take a short trip of their own. The destination for the female members of the family was Holstein, Iowa, to the home of Mrs. Goettsch's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Henrichsen. The Larry Goettsch family did manage to get together however. During that weekend which separated the two weeks Mr. Goettsch was at camp, Mrs. Goettsch and her parents drove to Fort Carson, Colo., so that the separation would not be too long.

The Womanly Art

By PHYLLIS WOOLLEN

When a man and woman decide to start a family, there are many decisions that they must make concerning the upbringing of the addition to their family. One of these decisions is whether or not the woman will nurse her child.

For many generations, children have been primarily bottle-fed, so that many young men and women who are about to have children of their own have grown up without seeing a woman breastfeed a child.

However, with the turn towards ecology and a more natural way of living, an upsurge of women are making the decision to nurse their children.

Since many young women have not had past personal experience in their own families of seeing a child breastfed, they often need information and consolation, especially with their first child. It was for this reason that Mary White and Marian Tompson of Franklin Park, Ill. formed the La Leche (Lay-chay) League in 1956.

The two women had been at a family picnic, complete with babies. In the gathering of women, the discussion rolled around to babies and breastfeeding, and the joys and dilemmas of each. Deciding to do something to help mothers who had, or might have, problems in breastfeeding, the League was organized.

Now a national organization, women who are interested in breastfeeding their children, can turn to the La Leche League for factual information, guidance and support.

In Lincoln, there are four 'leaders,' or women who are qualified by the La Leche League to answer questions concerning nursing a baby. These women are: Mrs. William Baker—477-9480; Mrs. Delmar Timm, 423-9620; Mrs. Roger Duerr—434-5402; and Mrs. Bill Macy.

On the third Thursday of each month, the Lincoln La Leche League holds a meeting at the home of one of these women. All meetings follow "The Womanly Art of Breastfeeding", a manual written by the mothers who founded the league. A series of four monthly meetings includes: (1) Advantages of breastfeeding to mother and baby; (2) The art of breastfeeding and overcoming difficulties; (3) Baby arrives — the family and the breastfed baby; and (4) Nutrition and weaning.

According to the League, reliable statistics indicate that well over 90 percent of all modern mothers are physically able to nurse their babies, yet only about one-third are actually successful.

The advantages of nursing, studies show, are that breast milk is superior infant food, and more readily assimilated than cow's milk. In many instances, breastfed babies are found to be healthier and immune to many common ailments of the bottle-fed child.

This is not to say that every mother should nurse her child, according to Mrs. B. L. Kenny, Clinical Coordinator O.R.—O.B. at St. Elizabeth's Health Center. "We feel that it is an individual decision. It should be the mother's idea, and a family decision. If a father rejects the idea, we find the mother soon abandons it."

While the La Leche League does promote breastfeeding, they are not a radical organization. For the many women who need a bit of knowledgable comfort or womanly advice, the leaders of the League are available. If the problem is a medical one, however, they will advise you to consult your doctor.

On October 2, a state meeting of the La Leche League will be held in Lincoln. For further information, contact one of the leaders.

a happy ending

DEAR ABBY: My story which my wife and I have agreed never to mention, might help others:

"Torchy" (fictitious name) was the most attractive young gal in our office, and all the men, including myself, shared her "favors" with which she was very generous. (I was a swinging young bachelor in those days.)

Next thing Torchy informed us that one of us had impregnated her! Now who would want to marry such a situation? Her attempts to pin the deed on each one of us terminated her charms overnight. Torchy played it cool and continued to work, growing bigger right before our guilty eyes. My conscience got the better of me and I married the Office Problem.

The baby was born and he is the cutest kid you've ever seen. Furthermore, he is the living image of ME!

Now, the most important part. Torchy straightened herself out and became the kind of wife and mother every man hopes for. We have moved to another city, leaving our pasts behind us. And now every time I look at that beautiful kid I think of how close I came to walking out on my responsibility as well as handing my own son over to someone else. Sign me.

Outside the gates of the Lincoln Children's Zoo is one of its greatest attractions, the zoo train. Averaging close to 800 passengers a day, the open red cars which tour the outside of the Zoo, delight children of all ages.

One of the most endearing qualities of the train are its five conductors, George Roeder, Clyde Zook, Jim Cubbison, Joe Tocko and Ernest Mack. All five men are retired trainmen, but they still wear their uniforms and conductors hats as if they were on the big railroads.

The conductors are very amiable gentlemen. Very often, by special request, they will allow a youngester to ride up at the front of the train, right next to their conductor's seat.

Every once in a while something comes up which is a bit out of the line of duty for a conductor. For instance, just last week, conductor George Roeder happened to be on hand when a two-year-old girl took a pretty severe fall. The child's mother tried desperately to revive the girl, who had stopped breathing. When Mr. Roeder arrived, he found the girl had swallowed her tongue, which had caused her to stop breathing. He quickly remedied the situation, and briskly patted the child's back. She revived and began breathing once again.

For Mr. Roeder, it was all in a day's work, but for the little girl and her family, he will long be remembered.

Train rides will continue to run on weekends, even after the Zoo closes. And any child (or parent) who can save fifteen pennies to present to Mr. or Mrs. Richard Hudson at the train box office, is eligible.

The train was donated to the Children's Zoo by the Lincoln Jaycees.

Opening lead—two of spades.

Let's say you get to five diamonds on the bidding shown and West leads a spade. East wins with the ace, felling your king, and returns a spade, leaving you with the problem of how to play the hand to the best advantage.

The outlook is certainly not promising, for it appears that you'll eventually have to lose a heart and a club to go down one. In theory there is even a change of losing a trump trick, but that possibility seems remote, since East almost surely has the king of diamonds for his opening bid.

However, you can't just sit there and take a licking without making an effort for the contract, so you start to think in terms of hands the opponents might have that would give you a chance.

On the bidding there is no chance of West's having the ace of clubs, but there is some chance of his having the J-10 Accordingly, you play for this possibility.

You discard a heart on the spade return at trick two and lead the ten of diamonds from dummy at trick three. When it holds, you continue with a trump to the ace and lead a club towards dummy.

If West follows low, you play the nine, hoping it will force out the ace. As it happens, this long shot comes through and you are rewarded for having made a correct assumption on how the cards had to be divided for you to make the contract.

Note that if the nine lost to the ten or jack, you would still go down only one trick. You would force out the ace of clubs later on and in that way avoid a heart loser.

After School Goodies

Here's a recipe that puts a sparkling new flavor into a cookie that has been a favorite with generations of youngsters. They're Date Ginger Snaps . . . cookies that combine the spicy tang of ginger, cloves, cinnamon and molasses with the extra-sweet richness of Bordo imported dates.

Once the cookies come from the oven, the very most fun of all is at hand. Date Ginger Snaps make delicious "sandwiches" for filling with marshmallow whip, peanut butter, jelly, cream cheese or whipped cream. Let the children spread them thick and pile them high and watch how quickly these fresh baked treats disappear along with glasses of milk. (Incidentally, they're also great crisp and snappy straight from the cookie jar for more adult tastes.)

DATE GINGER SNAPS

1¾ cub butter
1 cup sugar
1 egg
1¼ cup dark molasses
2 cups sifted flour
1 teaspoon baking soda
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 teaspoon cloves
1 teaspoon ginger
1 8-oz. package imported diced dates or whole dates, cut up.

Cream together butter and sugar, add egg and mix. Blend in molasses. Sift in dry ingredients and mix well. Mix in Bordo imported diced dates. Refrigerate the dough for one hour. Remove from the refrigerator and roll the dough into one inch balls. Place balls two inches apart on a greased cookie sheet. Bake at 375 degrees for 15 to 18 minutes. Yield: 2½ to 3 dozen cookies.

POSTCARD by Stan Delaplane

In 1848, Denmark freed the slaves of the Virgin Islands. It shocked the free world.

It was well known in the British islands and the American South that slaves were happier cutting sugar cane and making rum.

The sugar cane economy then collapsed. ("You see?" said the free world.)

In 1917, the U.S. offered Denmark $25 million for the islands. The Danes were happy to accept and get out.

"That ain't the Tivoli Gardens down there, Knut," they said, mopping their steaming brows.

Today, the Danes must be mighty melancholy. Last year, the Virgin Islands took in a jillion dollars from steaming tourists.

☆ ☆ ☆

St. Croix is the largest of the American Virgin Islands and the only one that still raises sugar cane.

St. Thomas and St. John have found it more profitable to raise tourist prices.

"That's sugar cane," said my taxi driver. "You don't see sugar cane on those other islands."

My driver is a lady. She is a schoolteacher in the winter. In the summer she drives tourist taxi. She said all tourists are interested in sugar cane and she was proud that St. Croix still raises it.

☆ ☆ ☆

The school teacher-driver meets all the planes.

"You know what tourists like to see?"

"What do they like to see?" I asked.

"First thing we drive from the airport, the man say: "What all that green grass is?" I say to him, 'That sugar cane.' He say, 'Is that so? I never see sugar cane before. That sugar cane,' he say to his wife.

"Then his wife say, 'Where is good place to shop?'

"She don't care about sugar cane. Only want to go to freeport shop."

Said the schoolteacher-taxi driver: "Sometime you get the tourist man he say to me, 'What the wasp doing in the car?' Plenty wasp right now.

"So I say to him, 'That we call a Jack Spaniard.' That is what we call wasp in these islands. You hear that before?"

"I never heard it before," I said.

"Now you hear about it, you can tell people at your hotel," she said. "They think you smart. They think you come from islands only you wrong color. Must be black like me then they know for sure you island person.

"This town Frederiksted is where they free all slaves. Those Danes they make slaves free. If they don't do that, I be slave today, maybe. They make everybody free year 1848."

☆ ☆ ☆

"Those big jet come to airport and I drive those people to Christiansted or Fredericksted. I tell them about Jack Spaniard and sugar cane.

"Right away the woman go into shop and buy perfume. She buy all kinds perfume. Man he buy rum — only 80 cents a bottle on St. Croix. Good rum.

"Then both man and woman buy big island straw hat. She buy more perfume. He buy camera. Pay maybe hundred dollars for camera. Go back to hotel. He say, 'Wait a minute driver. You take my picture in sugar cane.' "

☆ ☆ ☆

The lady driver said it was a whole education in itself, driving tourist around St. Croix.

"Sometimes in school I tell children what happen to me when I drive those tourist around in summer. I tell how they don't know Jack Spaniards, don't know about sugar cane. Those children don't believe. They think I must be making fun. But no. All true."

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

☆ By SIDNEY OMARR ☆

Forecast For Tuesday

Ancient astrologers attempted to amuse as well as educate and guide the populace. The medieval play of Harlequinade serves as an excellent example. It is astrological in origin, is still performed in all pantomimes in England. It is based on the assumption that the four fixed signs — Leo, Scorpio, Aquarius and Taurus — are representative of the fourfold being of man. That is, spirit, soul, mind and body.

☆ ☆ ☆

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Partnerships, joint projects are subject to sudden change. Be ready for surprise actions by friends. Some due to express selves in bizarre manner. Sense of humor here is essential. Stay near home.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Unusual assignment is on agenda. Relative sends signal. Be aware, alert and versatile. Associate, co-worker may try to involve you in clandestine affair. Keep guard up — chin tucked in.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): What glitters may be at distance. Protect assets. Romance and business do not now mix. Know this; respond accordingly. Heed voice of experience. Energies depleted if actions are rash. Maintain steady pace.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Money in escrow is released. Keep sights on conservative course. Property, security is involved. One at home does have right to know. Put finishing touches on project. Expand horizons.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Check directions, even on short journeys. One who is ill could put in emergency call. Utilize intuitive intellect; means follow through on hunch. Don't procrastinate. Perform with verve, enthusiasm.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Financial gain a distinct possibility; but revised work procedure is necessary. Remember recent lessons. Apply them. Aquarius individual figures prominently. Unorthodox approach is constructive.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Surprises are featured; social activity increases. Forces tend to be scattered. Demands are made on your time. Be flexible, sociable without depleting energy. Strive for balance.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Discussion with one who performs special services could bring unique results. Means put opinions, desires on line. Secrets tend now to defy category; family member locates truth.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Study Scorpio message. Exchange ideas. Open lines of communication. Write and report; spread of word. Gemini could be valuable ally. Throw off false pride; if you don't know — ask. Then you win.

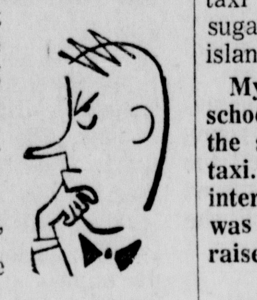
POSTCARD by Stan Delaplane

In 1848, Denmark freed the slaves of the Virgin Islands. It shocked the free world.

It was well known in the British islands and the American South that slaves were happier cutting sugar cane and making rum.



The sugar cane economy then collapsed. ("You see?" said the free world.)

In 1917, the U.S. offered Denmark $25 million for the islands. The Danes were happy to accept and get out.

"That ain't the Tivoli Gardens down there, Knut," they said, mopping their steaming brows.

Today, the Danes must be mighty melancholy. Last year, the Virgin Islands took in a jillion dollars from steaming tourists.

☆ ☆ ☆

St. Croix is the largest of the American Virgin Islands and the only one that still raises sugar cane.

St. Thomas and St. John have found it more profitable to raise tourist prices.

"That's sugar cane," said my taxi driver. "You don't see sugar cane on those other islands."

My driver is a lady. She is a schoolteacher in the winter. In the summer she drives tourist taxi. She said all tourists are interested in sugar cane and she was proud that St. Croix still raises it.

☆ ☆ ☆

The school teacher-driver meets all the planes.

"You know what tourists like to see?"

"What do they like to see?" I asked.

"First thing we drive from the airport, the man say: "What all that green grass is?" I say to him, 'That sugar cane.' He say, 'Is that so? I never see sugar cane before. That sugar cane,' he say to his wife.

"Then his wife say, 'Where is good place to shop?'

"She don't care about sugar cane. Only want to go to freeport shop."

Said the schoolteacher-taxi driver: "Sometime you get the tourist man he say to me, 'What the wasp doing in the car?' Plenty wasp right now.

"So I say to him, 'That we call a Jack Spaniard.' That is what we call wasp in these islands. You hear that before?"

"I never heard it before," I said.

"Now you hear about it, you can tell people at your hotel," she said. "They think you smart. They think you come from islands only you wrong color. Must be black like me then they know for sure you island person.

"This town Frederiksted is where they free all slaves. Those Danes they make slaves free. If they don't do that, I be slave today, maybe. They make everybody free year 1848."

☆ ☆ ☆

"Those big jet come to airport and I drive those people to Christiansted or Fredericksted. I tell them about Jack Spaniard and sugar cane.

"Right away the woman go into shop and buy perfume. She buy all kinds perfume. Man he buy rum — only 80 cents a bottle on St. Croix. Good rum.

"Then both man and woman buy big island straw hat. She buy more perfume. He buy camera. Pay maybe hundred dollars for camera. Go back to hotel. He say, 'Wait a minute driver. You take my picture in sugar cane.' "

☆ ☆ ☆

The lady driver said it was a whole education in itself, driving tourist around St. Croix.

"Sometimes in school I tell children what happen to me when I drive those tourist around in summer. I tell how they don't know Jack Spaniards, don't know about sugar cane. Those children don't believe. They think I must be making fun. But no. All true."

Soup Contains Some Spoilage

Camden, N.J. (UPI) — Campbell Soup Co. said Monday it has found some "spoilage" but no further trace of botulism poisoning in its initial analysis of 230,000 cans of chicken vegetable soup recalled from 16 states.

A spokesman for the nation's leading soup producer said however that so far laboratory tests have been conducted on only 300 cases of soup from the shipment suspected of contamination.

At least 2,000 of 4,799 cases in the suspected shipment have not been located. Some of the batch has already been sold from grocers' shelves.

William Parker, director of information services, said the firm had "ascertained the whereabouts" of only 2,763 cases of the soup processed at the company's plant in Paris, Tex.

The soup was recalled by Campbell Sunday after chemists found evidence of botulism in one "tightly swollen can which was very putrid."

The contaminated can was among a July 15 shipment to 16 southern and southwestern states, but Campbell recalled all chicken vegetable soup processed recently at Paris as "an extra safety factor."

It was the second discovery of botulism contamination in soup products in two months, but unlike the first instance involving Bon Vivant brand vichyssoise soup no illness has been reported.

Although a "tiny percentage of spoilage" was found so far among recovered cans of chicken vegetable soup, Parker said, none contained evidence of botulism.

The suspect soup, 230,352 cans were stamped with the code number "07,P13,701X," and were shipped to Alabama, Arkansas, Colorado, Florida, Georgia, Kansas, Kentucky, Louisiana, Nebraska, New Mexico, Mississippi, Missouri, Oklahoma, Tennessee, Texas and Wyoming.

Food Stores Check Supply Of Possibly Poisoned Soup

Several Lincoln supermarkets Monday checked their supply of chicken vegetable soup that was suspected of containing a deadly botulism contamination.

Although a spokesman from the Poison Control Center in Omaha said it appeared that no soup had been shipped into the area from the Texas plant, one employe said his store was checking the cans "just to be safe."

One Lincoln store, Schrier's Food Market at 10th and South, decided to pull all cans of Campbell's chicken vegetable soup from the shelves. Other stores reported that they had checked identification numbers issued from the soup company against those in their stock.

Dr. Henry Smith, state health director, said the company used a "quick honest approach" in making public the fact that 4,799 cases of the soup are suspected of containing botulism.

"It's a fine example of an industry protecting public health," Smith said.

The spokesman for the Poison Control Center said most of the soup supplies in the area come from Chicago and none processed in the Texas plant had been found during a check of area grocery stores.

McGovern Organizers To Work On Campuses

Student coordinators were named Monday to organize Nebraska college and high school campuses for the presidential campaign of Sen. George McGovern.

Their appointment was announced by Lou Lamberty, state coordinator for Citizens for McGovern.

Steve Tiwald, a University of Nebraska senior and Lincoln student body president in 1970-71, will serve as state coordinator for college students.

His job will be to organize student groups on more than 20 college campuses across the state. There are about 65,000 college students in Nebraska.

Gary Schweikhart of Omaha, state coordinator for high school students, hopes to set up a unit in every high school to work on voter registration and encourage students to support McGovern.

An estimated 10,000 high school students in Nebraska will turn 18 in time to vote in the 1972 primary election.

McGovern will be a candidate in the Democratic presidential primary election.

City Engineer Says Tires With Studs Damage Streets

Lincoln City Engineer Richard Erixson said Monday that he doesn't have "any doubt at all that studded snow tires have caused the wearing down of city streets."

This comment came after Omaha City Engineer Marvin B. Staven recommended passage by the 1972 legiislature of a law prohibiting studded snow tires in Nebraska.

Erixson said he felt there should be some kind of "prohibition" on studded tires, adding that it would be up to the city council and the mayor to decide on the issue.

He said studded tires have done a "great deal of the damage that has occurred to the streets." He cited 9th and 10th Streets as examples of this excessive wearing down.

Court Hears Dispute Over Teachers' Pay

The Nebraska Court of Industrial Relations Monday heard another case involving a dispute over teachers' salaries.

The Hastings Education Association asked the court to set a salary schedule with a $6,600 base which the Hastings Board of Education felt was too high.

The board contended that individual teaching contracts have already been signed.

The case is the latest in a flurry of teacher cases resulting from the Legislature giving the court jurisdiction in disputes regarding teacher salaries.

28 Die In Floods Caused By Rains

Port Elizabeth, South Africa (AP) — At least 28 people are reported to have died in flooding following two days of rains that swept a 750-mile stretch of the eastern cape province and Natal coasts during the weekend.

Officials said every major dam within 100 miles of Port Elizabeth was overflowing, and road communications between the city and the rest of South Africa were cut.

J. JAMES EXON

Gov. Exon To Decide Very Soon

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

Gov. J. James Exon will "announce a firm decision very soon" on his possible candidacy for the 1972 Democratic senatorial nomination.

Exon earlier indicated that an affirmative decision is unlikely.

"A lot of people are still talking to me about a Senate race," the governor said. "But I have not encouraged them at all."

If he does not enter the senatorial primary contest, Exon said, he will "remain completely neutral, and allow Democratic voters to select their nominee who will then have my complete support."

Exon said he does not share the apprehension which some Democrats have expressed over State Sen. Terry Carpenter's candidacy for the Senate nomination.

"We've had Mayor Lindsay join our party, and Senator Carpenter join our party, and Governor Tiemann has indicated that he would be likely to have a better chance in any future race as a Democrat rather than a Republican," Exon said.

"We encourage this. We want as many people who feel they fit in the Democratic Party to join our ranks."

United Methodist Women Leaders Meet In Lincoln

Some 250 women leaders of the United Methodist Church gathered at the Nebraska Center Monday to begin deciding program priorities for the church's women's organizations.

The national seminar, held every four years, opened with an orientation session and an evening "service of celebration."

Highlights of the week-long seminar will include addresses Tuesday at 9 a.m. by Mrs. Theressa Hoover, associate general secretary of the church's women's division; at 9 a.m. Wednesday by a representative of the permanent mission of Tanzania to the United Nations, and at 7:30 p.m. Friday by Dorothy Height, president of the National Council of Negro Women.

Miss Hoover will address the first formal session Tuesday.

Most seminar sessions, which have attracted women from all around the country, will be small study groups focusing on the issue of development as it relates to the expanding role of women throughout the world and to the experience of formerly colonial nations in Africa and Asia.

Recommendations for action will be finalized on Aug. 31, the last day of the seminar, at a 10 a.m. session.

Building Pace Of Interstates Ahead In State

Construction of the Interstate highway system in Nebraska still continues at a pace faster than that of the nation as a whole or of surrounding states, according to the State Department of Roads.

As of June 30, Nebraska had all but 19.3% of its authorized limit of 480 miles of Interstate highway built.

That figure compares to a national average of 36.8%.

Sniper Fire Kills Soldier On Duty

Belfast, Northern Ireland (AP) — A sniper shot down a British soldier on sentry duty Monday outside a mill off the Crumlin Road area where Protestants and Roman Catholics have collided in deadly combat for the past two weeks.

The young trooper, unidentified until his family is informed, died on his way to a hospital.

Big Blue Basin Residents Indicate Impatience On Dam Progress

Southeast Nebraska Bureau

Seward — "It seems like all we keep hearing is 'to hell with our dam.' "

That was one of numerous remarks here Monday night reflecting the impatience of residents still hopeful of flood protection in the Big Blue River basin.

Approximately 125 persons from 20 communities attended a meeting in the latest such session over a period of at least 20 years.

Organization

The plain consensus after 2½ hours of discussion was that some type of formal organization is vital to promote action.

Rep. Charles Thone borrowed from the words of an anonymous farmer and amplified:

"To get this basin developed, you're going to have to holler like hell so Washington knows what you want."

The group's ire was particularly aroused when reminded that the Army Corps of Engineers had discounted upstream protection benefits in computing cost-benefit figures for proposed area dams.

A spokesman last spring said Tuttle Creek Dam is not considered adequate to protect Kansas City and other downstream cities.

Although the corps was not represented Monday, a Bureau of Reclamation spokesman was used as a sounding board of discontent. Winston H. Hedges of McCook devoted nearly half the meeting to reviewing previous studies in the basin.

He reminded the audience that only one Big Blue structure, a dam on the river's West Fork, near Beaver Crossing, appears close to being economically feasible.

This brought several suggestions that government criteria need revision, possibly taking into account "human values."

"The criteria are completely outmoded in this day and age," said Chet Ellis of Beatrice. "After all, nobody had to justify going to the moon on cost-benefit ratios."

Hedges said the basin needs 450,000 acre feet of surface water storage to stabilize the ground water supply. He based this on figures showing that for every acre irrigated, "the ground water lost is about one half acre-foot per year."

He said there has been a substantial decline in the water table in the seven-county area since 1962, mainly due to heavy irrigation. Fillmore County, dropping the most, has sustained a decline of some 14 feet.

A 15-minute presentation by Mrs. Lee McGowen of Ulysses, started off the session. The presentation outlined various aspects of flooding in the basin.

The meeting was sponsored by Vision 17, with James H. Childe in charge. Several state senators and Dayle Williamson, executive secretary of the Nebraska Soil and Water Conservation Commission, were among those attending.

Mental Health Group Sets Prime Objective

By MILAN WALL
Star Staff Writer

The Lincoln Hospital and Health Council's mental health planning committee has set as its prime objective the universal recognition and acceptance of human need.

The "prime objective" leads off a 13-page "final working draft" of objectives developed by the mental health planning committee during nearly eight months of work this year.

The statement of objectives was made public Monday afternoon by Clancy Woolman, committee chairman.

Woolman and his 30-member committee have set late October as the "goal date" for recommending a comprehensive mental health program for Lancaster County, the area of the health council's responsibility.

The objectives were developed by the committee after it identified mental health needs on the basis of universal needs and needs for children, youths, adults and the elderly.

'Prime Objective'

As its "prime universal objective," the committee said:

"All citizens of Lancaster County will recognize and accept the universality of human and will demonstrate their concern, awareness, and social responsibility by their willingness to involve themselves in and their attempts to generate activities that meet broad social needs."

The statements on the following 13 pages are objectives which relate directly to the needs statement developed earlier.

"Together, these objectives describe the goal of mental health services to be recommended by the committee," Woolman said.

"An objective describes what activities individual citizens on mental health agencies and professionals will be able to do in a particular situation or in general that enable individual citizens to meet their mental health needs," he said.

Bases For Recommending

The objectives, he added, will become "the bases for recommending new programs and for evaluating programs currently in existence."

The list of objectives touches on such areas as social and family adjustment, family life, knowledge, education, housing, employment, law, physical health and nutrition and mental health treatment.

The planning committee, in order to keep citizens of the county abreast of its work, is making public each section of its program development as the segments are completed.

Program formulation and a plan of services are in the developmental stage.

Cornhusker Oxen Bought In State Sale

Neb and Raska, the two oxen used to promote the Cornhusker State, have become a permanent part of the Buffalo Bill Cody Wild West Show, now performing in North Platte.

Montie Montana Jr., producer of the show, was high bidder for the animals during a State Department of Roads auction of surplus equipment. Montana bid $600 for the 11-year-old animals. The show producer also acquired a Conestoga wagon for $1,600 and the yoke for $110.

Neb II and Raska II, the five year-old backup oxen, were purchased by Omaha's Henry Doorly Zoo for $1,025.

Neb and Raska were used for promotional purposes but recently were declared surplus property by the state.

Montana had been leasing the oxen and wagon, but decided to make the outfit a permanent part of the show when it was announced the oxen would be put up for auction.

The auction was the largest equipment sale in the history of the roads department.

Bridgeport Man Drowns As Raft Hits River Snag

Jackson, Wyo. (AP) — Teton County sheriff's officers reported Monday the drowning of a Bridgeport, Neb., man in the Snake River during the weekend.

The body of Dale Morton, 59, was recovered from the river about one mile downstream from where he and three other persons on a rubber raft went into the water on Friday.

Sheriff's officers said the raft hit a snag in the river and partially deflated throwing the occupants into the water. Three of the occupants, including two of Morton's grandchildren, made it to an island in the river but Morton was swept away.

Occupants of a second raft tossed him a life jacket, which he held onto briefly before going under.

The persons on the island were rescued by area ranch workers on horseback.

Soup Contains Some Spoilage

Camden, N.J. (UPI) — Campbell Soup Co. said Monday it has found some "spoilage" but no further trace of botulism poisoning in its initial analysis of 230,000 cans of chicken vegetable soup recalled from 16 states.

A spokesman for the nation's leading soup producer said however that so far laboratory tests have been conducted on only 300 cases of soup from the shipment suspected of contamination.

At least 2,000 of 4,799 cases in the suspected shipment have not been located. Some of the batch has already been sold from grocers' shelves.

William Parker, director of information services, said the firm had "ascertained the whereabouts" of only 2,763 cases of the soup processed at the company's plant in Paris, Tex.

The soup was recalled by Campbell Sunday after chemists found evidence of botulism in one "tightly swollen can which was very putrid."

The contaminated can was among a July 15 shipment to 16 southern and southwestern states, but Campbell recalled all chicken vegetable soup processed recently at Paris as "an extra safety factor."

It was the second discovery of botulism contamination in soup products in two months, but unlike the first instance involving Bon Vivant brand vichyssoise soup no illness has been reported.

Although a "tiny percentage of spoilage" was found so far among recovered cans of chicken vegetable soup, Parker said, none contained evidence of botulism.

The suspect soup, 230,352 cans were stamped with the code number "07,P13,701X," and were shipped to Alabama, Arkansas, Colorado, Florida, Georgia, Kansas, Kentucky, Louisiana, Nebraska, New Mexico, Mississippi, Missouri, Oklahoma, Tennessee, Texas and Wyoming.

Food Stores Check Supply Of Possibly Poisoned Soup

Several Lincoln supermarkets Monday checked their supply of chicken vegetable soup that was suspected of containing a deadly botulism contamination.

Although a spokesman from the Poison Control Center in Omaha said it appeared that no soup had been shipped into the area from the Texas plant, one employe said his store was checking the cans "just to be safe."

One Lincoln store, Schrier's Food Market at 10th and South, decided to pull all cans of Campbell's chicken vegetable soup from the shelves. Other stores reported that they had checked identification numbers issued from the soup company against those in their stock.

Dr. Henry Smith, state health director, said the company used a "quick honest approach" in making public the fact that 4,799 cases of the soup are suspected of containing botulism.

"It's a fine example of an industry protecting public health," Smith said.

The spokesman for the Poison Control Center said most of the soup supplies in the area come from Chicago and none processed in the Texas plant had been found during a check of area grocery stores.

McGovern Organizers To Work On Campuses

Student coordinators were named Monday to organize Nebraska college and high school campuses for the presidential campaign of Sen. George McGovern.

Their appointment was announced by Lou Lamberty, state coordinator for Citizens for McGovern.

Steve Tiwald, a University of Nebraska senior and Lincoln student body president in 1970-71, will serve as state coordinator for college students.

His job will be to organize student groups on more than 20 college campuses across the state. There are about 65,000 college students in Nebraska.

Gary Schweikhart of Omaha, state coordinator for high school students, hopes to set up a unit in every high school to work on voter registration and encourage students to support McGovern.

An estimated 10,000 high school students in Nebraska will turn 18 in time to vote in the 1972 primary election.

McGovern will be a candidate in the Democratic presidential primary election.

City Engineer Says Tires With Studs Damage Streets

Lincoln City Engineer Richard Erixson said Monday that he doesn't have "any doubt at all that studded snow tires have caused the wearing down of city streets."

This comment came after Omaha City Engineer Marvin B. Staven recommended passage by the 1972 legislature of a law prohibiting studded snow tires in Nebraska.

Erixson said he felt there should be some kind of "prohibition" on studded tires, adding that it would be up to the city council and the mayor to decide on the issue.

He said studded tires have done a "great deal of the damage that has occurred to the streets." He cited 9th and 10th Streets as examples of this excessive wearing down.

Court Hears Dispute Over Teachers' Pay

The Nebraska Court of Industrial Relations Monday heard another case involving a dispute over teachers' salaries.

The Hastings Education Association asked the court to set a salary schedule with a $6,600 base which the Hastings Board of Education felt was too high.

The board contended that individual teaching contracts have already been signed.

The case is the latest in a flurry of teacher cases resulting from the Legislature giving the court jurisdiction in disputes regarding teacher salaries.

28 Die In Floods Caused By Rains

Port Elizabeth, South Africa (AP) — At least 28 people are reported to have died in flooding following two days of rains that swept a 750-mile stretch of the eastern cape province and Natal coasts during the weekend.

Officials said every major dam within 100 miles of Port Elizabeth was overflowing, and road communications between the city and the rest of South Africa were cut.

J. JAMES EXON

Gov. Exon To Decide Very Soon

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

Gov. J. James Exon will "announce a firm decision very soon" on his possible candidacy for the 1972 Democratic senatorial nomination.

Exon earlier indicated that an affirmative decision is unlikely.

"A lot of people are still talking to me about a Senate race," the governor said. "But I have not encouraged them at all."

If he does not enter the senatorial primary contest, Exon said, he will "remain completely neutral, and allow Democratic voters to select their nominee who will then have my complete support."

Exon said he does not share the apprehension which some Democrats have expressed over State Sen. Terry Carpenter's candidacy for the Senate nomination.

"We've had Mayor Lindsay join our party, and Senator Carpenter join our party, and Governor Tiemann has indicated that he would be likely to have a better chance in any future race as a Democrat rather than a Republican," Exon said.

"We encourage this. We want as many people who feel they fit in the Democratic Party to join our ranks."

United Methodist Women Leaders Meet In Lincoln

Some 250 women leaders of the United Methodist Church gathered at the Nebraska Center Monday to begin deciding program priorities for the church's women's organizations.

The national seminar, held every four years, opened with an orientation session and an evening "service of celebration."

Highlights of the week-long seminar will include addresses Tuesday at 9 a.m. by Mrs. Theressa Hoover, associate general secretary of the church's women's division; at 9 a.m. Wednesday by a representative of the permanent mission of Tanzania to the United Nations, and at 7:30 p.m. Friday by Dorothy Height, president of the National Council of Negro Women.

Miss Hoover will address the first formal session Tuesday.

Most seminar sessions, which have attracted women from all around the country, will be small study groups focusing on the issue of development as it relates to the expanding role of women throughout the world and to the experience of formerly colonial nations in Africa and Asia.

Recommendations for action will be finalized on Aug. 31, the last day of the seminar, at a 10 a.m. session.

Building Pace Of Interstates Ahead In State

Construction of the Interstate highway system in Nebraska still continues at a pace faster than that of the nation as a whole or of surrounding states, according to the State Department of Roads.

As of June 30, Nebraska had all but 19.3% of its authorized limit of 480 miles of Interstate highway built.

That figure compares to a national average of 36.8%.

Sniper Fire Kills Soldier On Duty

Belfast, Northern Ireland (AP) — A sniper shot down a British soldier on sentry duty Monday outside a mill off the Crumlin Road area where Protestants and Roman Catholics have collided in deadly combat for the past two weeks.

Big Blue Basin Residents Indicate Impatience On Dam Progress

Southeast Nebraska Bureau

Seward — "It seems like all we keep hearing is 'to hell with our dam.' "

That was one of numerous remarks here Monday night reflecting the impatience of residents still hopeful of flood protection in the Big Blue River basin.

Approximately 125 persons from 20 communities attended a meeting in the latest such session over a period of at least 20 years.

Organization

The plain consensus after 2½ hours of discussion was that some type of formal organization is vital to promote action.

Rep. Charles Thone borrowed from the words of an anonymous farmer and amplified:

"To get this basin developed, you're going to have to holler like hell so Washington knows what you want."

The group's ire was particularly aroused when reminded that the Army Corps of Engineers had discounted upstream protection benefits in computing cost-benefit figures for proposed area dams.

A spokesman last spring said Tuttle Creek Dam is not considered adequate to protect Kansas City and other downstream cities.

Although the corps was not represented Monday, a Bureau of Reclamation spokesman was used as a sounding board of discontent. Winston H. Hedges of McCook devoted nearly half the meeting to reviewing previous studies in the basin.

He reminded the audience that only one Big Blue structure, a dam on the river's West Fork, near Beaver Crossing, appears close to being economically feasible.

This brought several suggestions that government criteria need revision, possibly taking into account "human values."

"The criteria are completely outmoded in this day and age," said Chet Ellis of Beatrice. "After all, nobody had to justify going to the moon on cost-benefit ratios."

Hedges said the basin needs 450,000 acre feet of surface water storage to stabilize the ground water supply. He based this on figures showing that for every acre irrigated, "the ground water lost is about one half acre-foot per year."

He said there has been a substantial decline in the water table in the seven-county area since 1962, mainly due to heavy irrigation. Fillmore County, dropping the most, has sustained a decline of some 14 feet.

A 15-minute presentation by Mrs. Lee McGowen of Ulysses, started off the session. The presentation outlined various aspects of flooding in the basin.

The meeting was sponsored by Vision 17, with James H. Childe in charge. Several state senators and Dayle Williamson, executive secretary of the Nebraska Soil and Water Conservation Commission, were among those attending.

Mental Health Group Sets Prime Objective

By MILAN WALL
Star Staff Writer

The Lincoln Hospital and Health Council's mental health planning committee has set as its prime objective the universal recognition and acceptance of human need.

The "prime objective" leads off a 13-page "final working draft" of objectives developed by the mental health planning committee during nearly eight months of work this year.

The statement of objectives was made public Monday afternoon by Clancy Woolman, committee chairman.

Woolman and his 30-member committee have set late October as the "goal date" for recommending a comprehensive mental health program for Lancaster County, the area of the health council's responsibility.

The objectives were developed by the committee after it identified mental health needs on the basis of universal needs and needs for children, youths, adults and the elderly.

'Prime Objective'

As its "prime universal objective," the committee said:

"All citizens of Lancaster County will recognize and accept the universality of human and will demonstrate their concern, awareness, and social responsibility by their willingness to involve themselves in and their attempts to generate activities that meet broad social needs."

The statements on the following 13 pages are objectives which relate directly to the needs statement developed earlier.

"Together, these objectives describe the goal of mental health services to be recommended by the committee," Woolman said.

"An objective describes what activities individual citizens on mental health agencies and professionals will be able to do in a particular situation or in general that enable individual citizens to meet their mental health needs," he said.

Bases For Recommending

The objectives, he added, will become "the bases for recommending new programs and for evaluating programs currently in existence."

The list of objectives touches on such areas as social and family adjustment, family life, knowledge, education, housing, employment, law, physical health and nutrition and mental health treatment.

The planning committee, in order to keep citizens of the county abreast of its work, is making public each section of its program development as the segments are completed.

Program formulation and a plan of services are in the developmental stage.

Horse Racing In Missouri?

Missouri voters will cast ballots on Oct. 5 on a constitutional amendment that would legalize pari-mutuel betting on horse races in their state.

Passage could hurt Omaha's Ak-Sar-Ben plant since the Nebraska track draws well from the Kansas City area and backers of the Missouri proposal predict that if the bill passes, tracks would be set up next year in both the Kansas City and St. Louis areas.

Should voters approve the betting proposal, the Legislature would still have to pass enabling laws. The wording does not spell out how proceeds would be used or what state officials would control the betting process.

The last serious attempt on pari-mutuel betting died in the Legislature in the early sixties.

Winning is still the best drawing card in sports. The Kansas City Royals have drawn seven crowds of 26,000 or more this season. They had reached that figure only four times in their first two years combined.

Bettors at the State Fairgrounds race meeting next summer may find exacta lines shorter with manager Henry Brandt considering replacing what now are $5 place and $5 show windows with exacta signs.

Aggie Tickets Gone

The last time Texas A&M was blanked in a football game was 19 games ago when Nebraska stopped them by 14-0 at Memorial Stadium in 1969. The two will meet again at the same place on Sept. 25.

And the Aggies ticket office has exhausted its supply of tickets for this one. Only other road game on the A&M slate that is currently sold out is at Texas Tech.

Nebraska tied for fourth during the 1970 football season in long play (20 yards or more) touchdowns with 19 of 'em.

The leader was Citadel with 23, followed by Arizona State 22, and San Diego State, 20. Tying with the Huskers at 19 were Washington and West Virginia.

Devaney Blows Early Whistle To Beat Heat

. . . MORNING SESSION STARTS ONE HOUR SOONER; NO WORD ON KROPP'S CHOICE

By HAL BROWN
Star Sports Editor

Nebraska head football coach Bob Devaney Monday ordered his coaching staff and players out of bed an hour earlier than usual this morning in a move designed to try to beat the heat.

In an experimental move, Devaney has moved the Huskers' morning session from 9 to 8 a.m. with the afternoon session remaining at the usual 3 p.m. starting time.

"By starting at 8 o'clock, it'll give the players an hour more of rest between workouts and we also won't run into that 10 to 11 a.m. heat," the Husker head coach explained.

"With the extra hour of rest between workouts," Devaney figures, "maybee we'll get more out of them in the afternoon."

Despite the extreme heat Monday afternoon, Devaney pointed out that none of the scheduled activities were curtailed. The squad worked in pads for the first time this fall during the morning session, but returned to shorts in the afternoon.

"We rarely work them in pads in the afternoon during two-a-days anyway," Devaney explained, "so it wasn't the heat that caused us to work in shorts."

Another measure Devaney uses to beat the heat is a break in the middle of the 90-minute afternoon sessions.

"I think that helps them bounce back," he offers. During the break the players take a salt water solution and orange slices.

The Huskers saw some contact work Monday morning and Devaney said contact would be a part of Wednesday's practice with cameras filming the action.

Monday was the Huskers' fourth day of fall camp and Devaney said he figured he could make a more complete progress report by the end of this week.

"By then we should be able to tell how we're doing," he said. "By then everyone should be in pretty good shape."

Waiting On Kropp

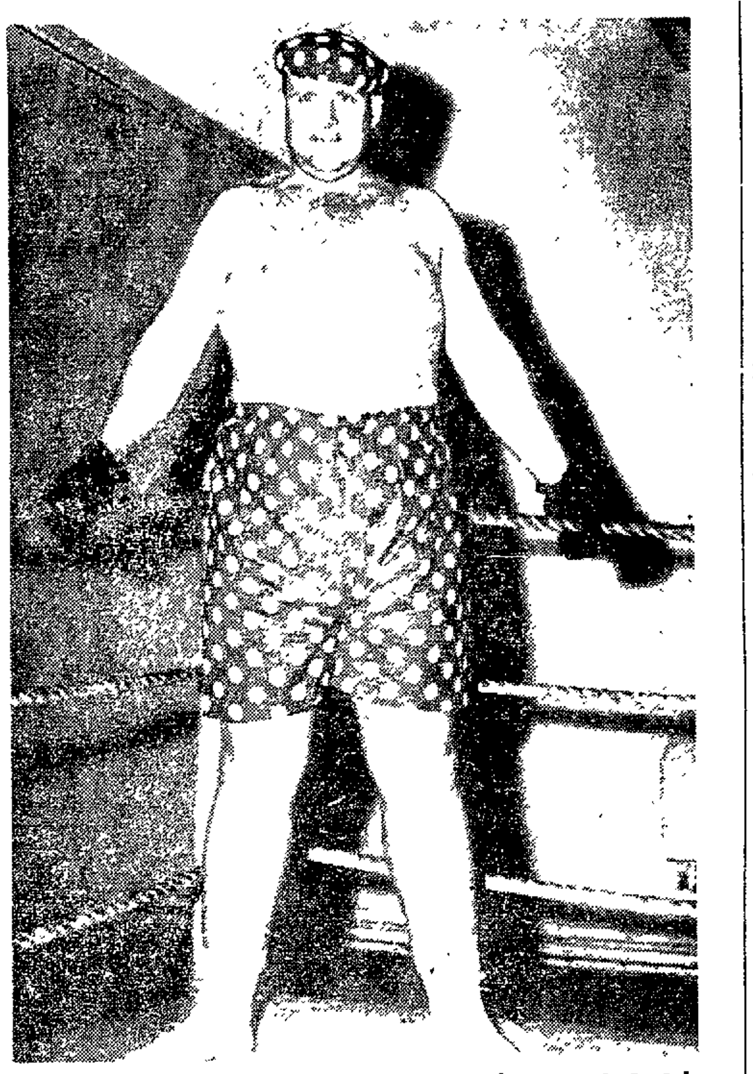
Devaney was still awaiting official word Monday night from Aurora's Tom Kropp on whether he still planned to enroll at Nebraska.

Kropp, voted the outstanding offensive player in Saturday's Shrine Bowl game after scoring all 16 of his South team's points, signed a national letter-of-intent last spring to attend NU, but rumors have circulated this summer that he might be headed for Kearney State.

"We certainly hope to see him in a Nebraska uniform," Devaney said Monday. "His performance in Saturday's game was the finest I've seen in that game since I've been at Nebraska."

NL LEADERS RECORD WINS

Big Boys Dominate Fight Card



BIG HEAVYWEIGHT . . . Humphrey McBride.

Omaha — Thursday night's professional boxing card at the Omaha Civic Auditorium will have a definite heavyweight flavor.

Four of the five bouts will feature the big boys, topped by the Ron Stander-Manuel Ramos rematch. There will be three six-round preliminary bouts, including a fight that will feature one of the biggest men ever to enter the Omaha ring.

Claude "Humphrey" McBride of Oklahoma City will meet Sherman Goodwin, a veteran boxer from Dallas. McBride, 6-4, 340 pounds, is unbeaten in 12 fights with nine of the victories coming via knockouts.

He has won his last seven by knockouts and has impressed observers enough that Ring Magazine has named him a "Prospect of the Month."

In another six-rounder, Omaha veteran Lou Bailey will try to extend his victory string to four when he meets Canadian heavyweight Sylvester Dullaire. Dullaire, in his lone Omaha appearance,fought Jim Elder to a controversial "no decision".

Morris Jackson of Omaha will meet veteran Joe Byrd of Flint, Mich., in a sixround heavyweight bout that was announced earlier. In the only non-heavyweight bout Thursday night, Gene Coon of Offutt Air Base will meet young middleweight Lou Grant, a student at Moorehead (Minn.) College.

Pirates, San Francisco Break Losing Streak

. . . BRAVES, METS TUMBLE

By Associated Press

The National League's front-runners shook loose from a pair of three-game losing spins Monday night with victories that gave them a bit of much needed breathing room.

The Pittsburgh Pirates, atop the East Division, swept a twinight doubleheader from Atlanta 4-3 and 15-4, while the West-leading San Francisco Giants held off the New York Mets 5-4.

In other National League games the Chicago Cubs beat Cincinnati 6-3, Montreal dumped Los Angeles 12-6, St. Louis nosed out Houston 3-2 and Philadelphia deafeated San Diego 3-1.

The Pirates, gaining half a game on the runner-up Cubs to open a five-game edge, rode Manny Sanguillen's two-run triple and a passed ball to three unearned runs in the sixth inning for the victory in their first game squeaker.

They unloaded on the Braves in the finale as Al Oliver blasted two home runs and a triple and Roberto Clemente and Bob Robertson hammered a homer apiece.

Bobby Bonds, the Giants' leader in virtually every offensive department, drilled his 24th homer and a run-scoring double as San Francisco opened a 5-0 lead before the Mets struck for all their runs in a sixth inning highlighted by Ed Kranepool's two-run triple.

The victory widened the Giants' lead to 7½ games over runner-up Los Angeles.

Rusty Staub led the Expos' assault against the Dodgers with a grand slam home run and a sacrifice fly and Boots Day contributed four RBI as Montreal obliterated an early 3-0 deficit.

The Cubs were paced by Ron Santo, who lashed three hits for three runs, and Cleo James who added three hits including a two-run homer, to back Juan Pizarro, who tamed the Reds on five hits.

Bob Gibson pitched a seven-hitter for the Cardinals and drove in the winning run with a ninth-inning single to top the Astros.

Rick Wise fired a four-hitter for the Phillies and Tim McCarver gave him all the runs he needed against the Padres with a two-run double.

In the slim American League schedule, Detroit's Les Cain ended a personal seven game losing streak with a 13-strikeout five-hitter and Dick McAuliffe crashed a three-run homer to power the Tigers to a 4-2 victory over the Minnesota Twins.

In the only other AL contest, the New York Yankees met the Oakland A's at Oakland.

Softball Title To Roberts

Roberts — Skyline, behind Mark Saulnier's three-hit shutout performance, claimed its fourth Nebraska Men's State Fast Pitch softball crown in the last nine years Monday night by besting Scottsbluff Radio, 2-0.

The Scottsbluff crew forced the tourney to its limit by handing Roberts its first loss, 1-0, in the double elimination meet. Gordon Schaub outduelled John Jackson.

Scottsbluff made the finals by tripping KOLN-TV, 2-0, on Randy Zitterkopf's one-hitter.

KOLN had earlier ousted Citizens State Bank, 5-1, in a 11-inning marathon. Dave Smith's two-run single was the big blow in the 11th.

Zadalis Leading Nebraska PGA Meet

. . . SON CREDITED WITH HELPING PRO POST 67 AT FREMONT

By STEVE GILLISPIE
Star Sports Writer

Fremont — Matt Zadalis credits his four-under-par 67 to advice from son Dan who caddied for him.

Zadalis' 67 leads the field in the Nebraska Section of the PGA after the first round here Monday at the Fremont Golf Club. Wood River's Merle Backlund is one back at 68 with defending champion John Frillman, Bob Popp and Juan Elizondo, all of Omaha, are tied at 69.

"I'm not such a young man any more and Dan helps me line up my shots," the 61-year-old pro from Omaha's Spring Lake Golf Course said.

"I can't judge distance like I used to and Dan lets me know what I should do. A younger pro can hit the ball further than I can, so I have to keep my shots in play and get close to the pin."

Zadalis was two over after the first three holes but said he was just loosening up and getting used to the course.

The only hole that gave Zadalis any trouble after that was No. 8 where he said he hit into the rough. After carding a 35 on the front nine, Zadalis 13-putted the back nine and shot a 32.

"The greens were perfect, I've never seen them here in better shape," Zadalis said.

Most of the contenders agreed with Zadalis on the greens' condition and said they thought it would take five or six under par to win. "Unless the wind comes up, it'll probably take a 136 or better to win," Elizondo, the Sunset Valley pro, said.

Backlund said he wasn't surprised at Zadalis being in the lead and added Zadalis will be tough to beat because "he's always hard to beat under pressure when he's ahead.

"The course is playing short because it's dry and this is Matt's type of course," Backland pointed out. "This is a position golf course and if you hit the ball straight like Matt does, you'll have a good score."

The only hole Backlund indicated that gave him any problem was No. 10 where he three-putted.

Frillman, the Happy Hollow pro, said his putts rolled good but he didn't get close enough to the pins with poor wedge shots. "I finally made about a 50-foot putt on No. 10 and that got my game back on the right track," Frillman noted.

Another contender, Popp, the Country Club pro, said he never really made any great shots but kept his ball in play and managed three birdies along with one bogey.

Elizondo, who fired a 66 in the practice round here Friday, indicated he sprayed the ball too much Monday. "I almost fell sleep by parring so many holes until I eagled No. 15 and this put me in contention," he said.

Play will end today after 18 holes with the leaders being put into two groups and teeing off last.

Capital City Coaches Host 600 In Gridiron Openers

By VIRGIL PARKER
Prep Sports Writer

The five Capital City high school football coaches greeted over 600 gridiron hopefuls as practice sessions opened for the season which begins Sept. 10.

Two and three-a-day drills were on tap for each squad, although hot weather was causing a shift in schedule at most schools, with workouts planned early in the morning and late afternoon.

The first two days, by state rule, are restricted to conditioning drills only, without pads or contact work.

"We divided the boys up into teams by position," coach Frank Solich of the defending Class A state champion Southeast Knights said. "This way they can learn all the plays and formations before we put on the pads."

Solich, with about 120 turning out, was expecting nine lettermen, but was down to eight when halfback Marshall Burling failed to show.

Lincoln High coach Andy Loehr greeted 116 players at his initial workout, but said that "several late arrivals, who didn't get their physical exams completed on time," will be on hand Tuesday.

The Links count 15 lettermen. "They have all been on a conditioning program this summer," Loehr said. "Most everyone appears to be in pretty good shape."

East High coach Lee Zentic, with 11 letter winners among the group, had 130 boys check out equipment.

"We're working with the juniors and seniors in one group, the sophomores in another," Zentic says. "Then we'll be organizing them as varsity, reserves and sophomore groups as we evaluate the talent."

Veteran head coach Vince Aldrich at Pius X, who will register "about 45 or 50 sophomores and freshman later in the week", began Monday with a turnout of 57 varsity and reserve players.

"This group includes three sophomores that we felt could make the varsity," Aldrich noted. "And there may be some others moving up later."

Aldrich, like several of the other coaches, said his drills would be juggled according to the weather. "The early morning workout is fine," he said, "but we're going to have to delay our afternoon time until later in the day, at least until the weather cools down a bit."

Lincolnites Gain Swim Crowns

Sioux City, Iowa — Two young Capital City swimmers, competing in the 8 and under division, splashed to three indvidual firsts in the Sioux City Open AAU swim meet Sunday.

Mike Thomassen took firsts in the butterfly, the backstroke and free style, while Shelly Bieck won the butterfly, the breastroke and free style event. Thomassen also swam in two winning relay contests. Scott Stanard set a new mark in the 9-10 breastroke.

Results:

BOYS: 8 and under—Mike Thomassen, firsts in butterfuly, backstroke, free style; Aaron Drake, third, breastroke; Casey Burley, third, backstroke, second free style; 9-10—Scott Stanard, first, breastroke; Harry Bauer, third in breastroke, free style; Con Bieck, third, butterfly; Bob Gustafson, second in backstroke, breastroke; 11-12—Rick Thomassen, first, breaststroke, third in butterfly, free style; Open—Doug Johnson, third, 50 free style; Brad Davis, second, 50 free style.

GIRLS: 8 and under—Shelly Bieck, firsts in butterfly, breastroke, free style; Kathy Gustafson, third, backstroke; 9-10—Lisa McKee, first, free style, second, I. M., third, breastroke.

Carlberg Captures UNO Distance Run

Nebraska miler Greg Carlberg was clocked in 1:28.28 while winning the University of Nebraska at Omaha Track Club's 15-mile run.

Carlberg was more than one minute ahead of runner-up Tim Hendricks of Peru State.

49ers Lose Anderson

Toronto (AP) — Defensive back Tim Anderson, the San Francisco 49er's No. 1 draft choice, has signed with the Toronto Argonauts, Coach Leo Cahill said Monday.

—THIRD YEAR AT HELM—

Chaffee Greets 57 At NWU Workout

Head football coach Harold Chaffee greeted 57 candidates Monday morning as Nebraska Wesleyan University opened its 1971 drills.

Chaffee, in his third year at the helm, will send his players through three sessions daily until Thursday.

The search for a field general will likely center around lettermen Dave McGrane and Ross Stephenson.

McGrane was a quarterback at Omaha North and generally considered the backup man to McKelvey last year. Stephenson played some defense for NWU last year and was called on different occasions to quarterback. He is from Lincoln East.

Graduation also took last year's leading rusher, Mike Kemling. Top running back candidate remaining is senior Lonnie Tapp of Lincoln.

Senior John McLaughlin, also of Lincoln, is among the fold. He already holds the game, season and career receiving records with a year of eligibility left.

End and kicking specialist Rick Boals was not on hand for the opening drill. The Sutton native would be a senior this year. He had four touchdowns, two field goals and 19 extra points for a 49 total to easily win that category on the 1970 squad.

The Plainsmen face a nine game schedule this year and will operate again in the Nebraska Inercollegiate Athletic Conference. The club was 6-4 last year and 5-4 in Chaffee's initial year as a college head coach.

Assistant coaches this year are Ron Bachman and Boyd Sankey.

The Nebraska Championship Race for late model modified stock cars will open four days of State Fairgrounds auto racing activity on Sept. 3.

It was previously reported that the opening race program would feature super modified cars from the Nebraska Modified Racing Association circuit.

The late model machines are modified 1955 to 1967 models which compete during the summer season at Midwest Speedway in Lincoln, and at Grand Island, Omaha, Kearney, Hastings and Norfolk.

Ex-Husker Meylan Cut By Minnesota

Mankato, Minn. (AP) — The Minnesota Vikings trimmed their National Football League roster Monday with four cuts.

Waived were punter Ed Marsh, a free agent from Baylor; running back Tim Sullivan, a ninth round draft choice from Iowa; Tommy Walls, a defensive back from Eastern Michigan and linebacker Wayne Meylan, a four-year veteran from Nebraska.

Larry Bird fired a hole-in-one at Pioneers Park on the 175-yard No. 4 hole using a five iron with Donald R. Snoberger, Warren Wester and Charles Smith witnessing the shot.

Ara's Irish Censured By NCAA

Kansas City (AP) — The National Collegiate Athletic Association announced today it has censured Notre Dame University for administration of its financial aid to student-athletes program.

The NCAA said the action was taken at the infractions committee meeting in San Francisco which ended Saturday and announced today after notification of Notre Dame officials.

The resolution of censure said a form offering aid to student-athletes and issued by the head football coach places administration of the aid in the hands of the coach rather than the university's regular scholarship awards authority.

The resolution called upon the university to immediately halt management of the funds through its coaches.

A Notre Dame spokesman said the letter-of-intent form, which includes a space at the bottom for the signature of both the athlete and Parseghian, was inaugurated when the veteran coach came to the South Bend school six years ago.

He said the bone of contention appears to be Parseghian's signature on the forms. The NCAA said that only the chairman of the school's grant-in-aid scholarship program should sign the preliminary letter.

Garland Ousted By San Antonio

Wichita, Kan. (AP) — Richard Guerra capped a four-for-four game at the plate with a run-scoring single in the eighth inning to give San Antonio, Tex. a 4-3 victory, eliminating Garland, in the National Baseball Congress tournament Monday.

Guerra, the San Antonio starting pitcher, slugged a bases-empty homer in the third and played left field after he was relieved on the mound in the sixth.

The Nebraska club had grabbed an early lead on Earl Hicks' two-run triple in the second inning.

Kropp, Finney Honored

Aurora's Tom Kropp and Lynn Finney of Lincoln Pius X, both from the victorious South squad, were voted the 13th annual Shrine Bowl all-star football game's outstanding players.

Kropp, who scored all of the South's 16 points from his fullback position with two touchdowns, a field goal and an extra point, was named the recipient of the Blue Howell trophy, annually awarded to the game's outstanding offensive player.

Finney, who like Kropp was a two-way performer for the first half, opening as an offensive halfback while teaming with Kropp as the South's linebackers, concentrated on his defensive assignment in the second half. He was named the winner of the Clayton F. Andrews trophy as the top defensive player in the game.

Fremont's Ritch Bahe, who sparked the North to a 13-10 lead late in the game, was Kropp's top challenger in the voting for the offensive trophy. Tony Davis of Tecumseh, who contributed several long runs and was the South's yardage leader, was also high in the final tabulations.

North middle guard Kim Thomas of Pierce figured heavily in the defensive voting behind Finney.

Devaney Blows Early Whistle To Beat Heat

. . . MORNING SESSION STARTS ONE HOUR SOONER; NO WORD ON KROPP'S CHOICE

By HAL BROWN
Star Sports Editor

Nebraska head football coach Bob Devaney Monday ordered his coaching staff and players out of bed an hour earlier than usual this morning in a move designed to try to beat the heat.

In an experimental move, Devaney has moved the Huskers' morning session from 9 to 8 a.m. with the afternoon session remaining at the usual 3 p.m. starting time.

"By starting at 8 o'clock, it'll give the players an hour more of rest between workouts and we also won't run into that 10 to 11 a.m. heat," the Husker head coach explained.

"With the extra hour of rest between workouts," Devaney figures, "maybee we'll get more out of them in the afternoon."

Despite the extreme heat Monday afternoon, Devaney pointed out that none of the scheduled activities were curtailed. The squad worked in pads for the first time this fall during the morning session, but returned to shorts in the afternoon.

"We rarely work them in pads in the afternoon during two-a-days anyway," Devaney explained, "so it wasn't the heat that caused us to work in shorts."

Another measure Devaney uses to beat the heat is a break in the middle of the 90-minute afternoon sessions.

"I think that helps them bounce back," he offers. During the break the players take a salt water solution and orange slices.

The Huskers saw some contact work Monday morning and Devaney said contact would be a part of Wednesday's practice with cameras filming the action.

Monday was the Huskers' fourth day of fall camp and Devaney said he figured he could make a more complete progress report by the end of this week.

"By then we should be able to tell how we're doing," he said. "By then everyone should be in pretty good shape."

Waiting On Kropp

Devaney was still awaiting official word Monday night from Aurora's Tom Kropp on whether he still planned to enroll at Nebraska.

Kropp, voted the outstanding offensive player in Saturday's Shrine Bowl game after scoring all 16 of his South team's points, signed a national letter-of-intent last spring to attend NU, but rumors have circulated this summer that he might be headed for Kearney State.

"We certainly hope to see him in a Nebraska uniform," Devaney said Monday. "His performance in Saturday's game was the finest I've seen in that game since I've been at Nebraska."

NL LEADERS RECORD WINS

Big Boys Dominate Fight Card

Omaha — Thursday night's professional boxing card at the Omaha Civic Auditorium will have a definite heavyweight flavor.

Four of the five bouts will feature the big boys, topped by the Ron Stander-Manuel Ramos rematch. There will be three six-round preliminary bouts, including a fight that will feature one of the biggest men ever to enter the Omaha ring.

Claude "Humphrey" McBride of Oklahoma City will meet Sherman Goodwin, a veteran boxer from Dallas. McBride, 6-4, 340 pounds, is unbeaten in 12 fights with nine of the victories coming via knockouts.

He has won his last seven by knockouts and has impressed observers enough that Ring Magazine has named him a "Prospect of the Month."

In another six-rounder, Omaha veteran Lou Bailey will try to extend his victory string to four when he meets Canadian heavyweight Sylvester Dullaire. Dullaire, in his lone Omaha appearance,fought Jim Elder to a controversial "no decision".

Morris Jackson of Omaha will meet veteran Joe Byrd of Flint, Mich., in a sixround heavyweight bout that was announced earlier. In the only non-heavyweight bout Thursday night, Gene Coon of Offutt Air Base will meet young middleweight Lou Grant, a student at Moorehead (Minn.) College.

Pirates, San Francisco Break Losing Streak

. . . BRAVES, METS TUMBLE

By Associated Press

The National League's front-runners shook loose from a pair of three-game losing spins Monday night with victories that gave them a bit of much needed breathing room.

The Pittsburgh Pirates, atop the East Division, swept a twinight doubleheader from Atlanta 4-3 and 15-4, while the West-leading San Francisco Giants held off the New York Mets 5-4.

In other National League games the Chicago Cubs beat Cincinnati 6-3, Montreal dumped Los Angeles 12-6, St. Louis nosed out Houston 3-2 and Philadelphia deafeated San Diego 3-1.

The Pirates, gaining half a game on the runner-up Cubs to open a five-game edge, rode Manny Sanguillen's two-run triple and a passed ball to three unearned runs in the sixth inning for the victory in their first game squeaker.

They unloaded on the Braves in the finale as Al Oliver blasted two home runs and a triple and Roberto Clemente and Bob Robertson hammered a homer apiece.

Bobby Bonds, the Giants' leader in virtually every offensive department, drilled his 24th homer and a run-scoring double as San Francisco opened a 5-0 lead before the Mets struck for all their runs in a sixth inning highlighted by Ed Kranepool's two-run triple.

The victory widened the Giants' lead to 7½ games over runner-up Los Angeles.

Rusty Staub led the Expos' assault against the Dodgers with a grand slam home run and a sacrifice fly and Boots Day contributed four RBI as Montreal obliterated an early 3-0 deficit.

The Cubs were paced by Ron Santo, who lashed three hits for three runs, and Cleo James who added three hits including a two-run homer, to back Juan Pizarro, who tamed the Reds on five hits.

Bob Gibson pitched a seven-hitter for the Cardinals and drove in the winning run with a ninth-inning single to top the Astros.

Rick Wise fired a four-hitter for the Phillies and Tim McCarver gave him all the runs he needed against the Padres with a two-run double.

In the slim American League schedule, Detroit's Les Cain ended a personal seven game losing streak with a 13-strikeout five-hitter and Dick McAuliffe crashed a three-run homer to power the Tigers to a 4-2 victory over the Minnesota Twins.

In the only other AL contest, the New York Yankees met the Oakland A's at Oakland.

Softball Title To Roberts

Roberts — Skyline, behind Mark Saulnier's three-hit shutout performance, claimed its fourth Nebraska Men's State Fast Pitch softball crown in the last nine years Monday night by besting Scottsbluff Radio, 2-0.

The Scottsbluff crew forced the tourney to its limit by handing Roberts its first loss, 1-0, in the double elimination meet. Gordon Schaub outduelled John Jackson.

Scottsbluff made the finals by tripping KOLN-TV, 2-0, on Randy Zitterkopf's one-hitter.

KOLN had earlier ousted Citizens State Bank, 5-1, in a 11-inning marathon. Dave Smith's two-run single was the big blow in the 11th.

Zadalis Leading Nebraska PGA Meet

. . . SON CREDITED WITH HELPING PRO POST 67 AT FREMONT

By STEVE GILLISPIE
Star Sports Writer

Fremont — Matt Zadalis credits his four-under-par 67 to advice from son Dan who caddied for him.

Zadalis' 67 leads the field in the Nebraska Section of the PGA after the first round here Monday at the Fremont Golf Club. Wood River's Merle Backlund is one back at 68 with defending champion John Frillman, Bob Popp and Juan Elizondo, all of Omaha, are tied at 69.

"I'm not such a young man any more and Dan helps me line up my shots," the 61-year-old pro from Omaha's Spring Lake Golf Course said.

"I can't judge distance like I used to and Dan lets me know what I should do. A younger pro can hit the ball further than I can, so I have to keep my shots in play and get close to the pin."

Zadalis was two over after the first three holes but said he was just loosening up and getting used to the course.

The only hole that gave Zadalis any trouble after that was No. 8 where he said he hit into the rough. After carding a 35 on the front nine, Zadalis 13-putted the back nine and shot a 32.

"The greens were perfect, I've never seen them here in better shape," Zadalis said.

Most of the contenders agreed with Zadalis on the greens' condition and said they thought it would take five or six under par to win. "Unless the wind comes up, it'll probably take a 136 or better to win," Elizondo, the Sunset Valley pro, said.

Backlund said he wasn't surprised at Zadalis being in the lead and added Zadalis will be tough to beat because "he's always hard to beat under pressure when he's ahead.

"The course is playing short because it's dry and this is Matt's type of course," Backland pointed out. "This is a position golf course and if you hit the ball straight like Matt does, you'll have a good score."

The only hole Backlund indicated that gave him any problem was No. 10 where he three-putted.

Frillman, the Happy Hollow pro, said his putts rolled good but he didn't get close enough to the pins with poor wedge shots. "I finally made about a 50-foot putt on No. 10 and that got my game back on the right track," Frillman noted.

Another contender, Popp, the Country Club pro, said he never really made any great shots but kept his ball in play and managed three birdies along with one bogey.

Elizondo, who fired a 66 in the practice round here Friday, indicated he sprayed the ball too much Monday. "I almost fell sleep by parring so many holes until I eagled No. 15 and this put me in contention," he said.

Play will end today after 18 holes with the leaders being put into two groups and teeing off last.

Capital City Coaches Host 600 In Gridiron Openers

By VIRGIL PARKER
Prep Sports Writer

The five Capital City high school football coaches greeted over 600 gridiron hopefuls as practice sessions opened for the season which begins Sept. 10.

Two and three-a-day drills were on tap for each squad, although hot weather was causing a shift in schedule at most schools, with workouts planned early in the morning and late afternoon.

The first two days, by state rule, are restricted to conditioning drills only, without pads or contact work.

"We divided the boys up into teams by position," coach Frank Solich of the defending Class A state champion Southeast Knights said. "This way they can learn all the plays and formations before we put on the pads."

Solich, with about 120 turning out, was expecting nine lettermen, but was down to eight when halfback Marshall Burling failed to show.

Lincoln High coach Andy Loehr greeted 116 players at his initial workout, but said that "several late arrivals, who didn't get their physical exams completed on time," will be on hand Tuesday.

The Links count 15 lettermen. "They have all been on a conditioning program this summer," Loehr said. "Most everyone appears to be in pretty good shape."

Northeast coach Bob Els devoted his first squad meeting to discovering the condition of his 122 hopefuls. The Rocket mentor conducted a 12-minute run seeing how much distance each player could cover in the allotted time.

"We find out in a real hurry who's in shape," Els said. Northeast starts the season with 12 lettermen.

East High coach Lee Zentic, with 11 letter winners among the group, had 130 boys check out equipment.

"We're working with the juniors and seniors in one group, the sophomores in another," Zentic says. "Then we'll be organizing them as varsity, reserves and sophomore groups as we evaluate the talent."

Veteran head coach Vince Aldrich at Pius X, who will register "about 45 or 50 sophomores and freshman later in the week", began Monday with a turnout of 57 varsity and reserve players.

"This group includes three sophomores that we felt could make the varsity," Aldrich noted. "And there may be some others moving up later."

Aldrich, like several of the other coaches, said his drills would be juggled according to the weather. "The early morning workout is fine," he said, "but we're going to have to delay our afternoon time until later in the day, at least until the weather cools down a bit."

Garland Ousted By San Antonio

Wichita, Kan. (AP) — Richard Guerra capped a four-for-four game at the plate with a run-scoring single in the eighth inning to give San Antonio, Tex. a 4-3 victory, eliminating Garland, in the National Baseball Congress tournament Monday.

Guerra, the San Antonio starting pitcher, slugged a bases-empty homer in the third and played left field after he was relieved on the mound in the sixth.

The Nebraska club had grabbed an early lead on Earl Hicks' two-run triple in the second inning.

Kropp, Finney Honored

Aurora's Tom Kropp and Lynn Finney of Lincoln Pius X, both from the victorious South squad, were voted the 13th annual Shrine Bowl all-star football game's outstanding players.

Kropp, who scored all of the South's 16 points from his fullback position with two touchdowns, a field goal and an extra point, was named the recipient of the Blue Howell trophy, annually awarded to the game's outstanding offensive player.

Finney, who like Kropp was a two-way performer for the first half, opening as an offensive halfback while teaming with Kropp as the South's linebackers, concentrated on his defensive assignment in the second half. He was named the winner of the Clayton F. Andrews trophy as the top defensive player in the game.

Fremont's Ritch Bahe, who sparked the North to a 13-10 lead late in the game, was Kropp's top challenger in the voting for the offensive trophy. Tony Davis of Tecumseh, who contributed several long runs and was the South's yardage leader, was also high in the final tabulations.

North middle guard Kim Thomas of Pierce figured heavily in the defensive voting behind Finney.

—THIRD YEAR AT HELM—

Chaffee Greets 57 At NWU Workout

Head football coach Harold Chaffee greeted 57 candidates Monday morning as Nebraska Wesleyan University opened its 1971 drills.

Chaffee, in his third year at the helm, will send his players through three sessions daily until Thursday.

For the first time in his career at NWU, Chaffee will be looking for a signal caller. Departed is Steve McKelvey of Lincoln who left with game, season and career passing records to his credit.

The search for a field general will likely center around lettermen Dave McGrane and Ross Stephenson.

McGrane was a quarterback at Omaha North and generally considered the backup man to McKelvey last year. Stephenson played some defense for NWU last year and was called on different occasions to quarterback. He is from Lincoln East.

Graduation also took last year's leading rusher, Mike Kemling. Top running back candidate remaining is senior Lonnie Tapp of Lincoln.

Senior John McLaughlin, also of Lincoln, is among the fold. He already holds the game, season and career receiving records with a year of eligibility left.

End and kicking specialist Rick Boals was not on hand for the opening drill. The Sutton native would be a senior this year. He had four touchdowns, two field goals and 19 extra points for a 49 total to easily win that category on the 1970 squad.

The Plainsmen face a nine game schedule this year and will operate again in the Nebraska Inercollegiate Athletic Conference. The club was 6-4 last year and 5-4 in Chaffee's initial year as a college head coach.

Assistant coaches this year are Ron Bachman and Boyd Sankey.

Ara's Irish Censured By NCAA

Kansas City (AP) — The National Collegiate Athletic Association announced today it has censured Notre Dame University for administration of its financial aid to student-athletes program.

The NCAA said the action was taken at the infractions committee meeting in San Francisco which ended Saturday and announced today after notification of Notre Dame officials.

The resolution of censure said a form offering aid to student-athletes and issued by the head football coach places administration of the aid in the hands of the coach rather than the university's regular scholarship awards authority.

The resolution called upon the university to immediately halt management of the funds through its coaches.

A Notre Dame spokesman said the letter-of-intent form, which includes a space at the bottom for the signature of both the athlete and Parseghian, was inaugurated when the veteran coach came to the South Bend school six years ago.

He said the bone of contention appears to be Parseghian's signature on the forms. The NCAA said that only the chairman of the school's grant-in-aid scholarship program should sign the preliminary letter.

Carter Keeps Bengals Cracking In 20-13 Win

. . . PAUL ROGERS BOOTS TWO FG FOR LOSERS

Cincinnati (AP) — Cincinnati scored four of the first five times it had the ball Monday night and the Bengal defense held off a Pittsburgh Steelers' rally for a 20-13 National Football League exhibition victory.

Virgil Carter, who led the Bengals to the Central Division title last year, engineered Cincinnati's third straight exhibition triumph.

The castoff of the Chicago Bears and the Buffalo Bills hit 19 of 27 passes for 191 yards and one touchdown.

Terry Bradshaw, Pittsburgh's No. 1 draft choice a year ago, came off the bench in the second half and nearly pulled out at least a tie for the Steelers now 1-1.

Bradshaw had Pittsburgh moving in the last minute but was hit by Cincinnati defensive tackle Steve Chomyszak and fumbled. Bengals linebacker Bill Bergey bounced on the ball and the Steeler's threat was over.

Horst Muhlmann booted field goals of 42 and 16 yards to jump Cincinnati to a 6-0 lead in the first quarter.

Pittsburgh's only score in the first half was a 45-yard field goal by former Nebraska Cornhusker Paul Rogers that hit the crossbar and bounced over.

Chicago (AP) — Running Jim Grabowski, recently placed on waivers by the Green Bay Packers, was signed as a free agent Monday by the Chicago Bears.

Grabowski, whose home is in Chicago, had recurring injuries much of the time with the Packers, who paid him a large bonus to sign in 1965.

The Bears also announced that running back Joe Moore, their No. 1 draft choice from Missouri, suffered torn ligaments in his right ankle in the Minnesota Vikings game Saturday and probably will be lost until Oct. 1.

The Sooners are holding short practice in the morning, at noon and in the evening. They will practice twice a day beginning Thursday when the NCAA allows the use of pads.

Junior Garry Baccus, who started part time last year at strong side linebacker, is being tried at middle linebacker. Grant Burget, who spent the spring on defense, has been moved to offensive halfback.

Nixon Names '71 Centennial Year For Fisheries

In recognition of a century of progress in fish management, President Richard M. Nixon has proclaimed 1971 Fisheries Centennial Year, according to the Nebraska Game and Parks Commission.

On Feb. 9, 1871, the U.S. Congress authorized President Grant to appoint the first Commissioner of Fish and Fisheries, the President recalled in his proclamation. Grant soon named professor Spencer Fullerton Baird to the post, and in June, 1871, Baird initiated a program of research concerning the conservation of fish.

It is from this beginning that both the National Marine Fisheries Service of the Commerce Department's National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration and the Department of the Interior's Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife have evolved.

Kansas Mentor Chides Defense For Poor Play

Lawrence, Kan. (AP) — Kansas head football coach Don Fambrough said he wasn't pleased with the way the defense performed in two workouts Monday.

While the coach chided the Jayhawk defenders, he praised punter Marc Harris, 6-2, 170, Lawrence, and place kicker Bob Helmbacher, 5-10, 152, St. Louis.

Missing Monday's afternoon workout was starting middle guard Don Perkins, 6-1, 223. Perkins underwent a leg operation during the summer, and KU officials said the leg was sore following Sunday's first scrimmage.

Dee Lantz, a second string defensive back from Atlantic, Iowa, was on crutches, missing both workouts. It was disclosed the 6-1, 180-pound sophomore now has a slight tear in the cartilage in his left knee.

Sophomore Back Pleases Gibson At Kansas State

Manhattan, Kan. (AP) — A running back from Wichita, Kan., impressed Kansas State officials Monday, the first time they've seen him in pads.

Vince Gibson, K-State head football coach, said he was surprised with Don Calhoun, a 201-pound sophomore, who came to Kansas State on a football grant-in-aid. Calhoun was unable to participate either in freshman competition or spring football for academic reasons.

No major injuries were reported during Monday's workouts. There was no scrimmage.

Line Play Draws Gass' Attention In OSU Camp

Stillwater, Okla. (AP) — Linemen drew the most attention as Oklahoma State went through two full-dress workouts Monday and coach Floyd Gass made some experimental personnel shifts.

He singled out defensive linemen Gilbert Barnes, Berry Price and Jay Cruse.

Regular defensive left end John Allen was tried at guard Monday, making room for Randall Jones and veteran Dan Geier at the defensive end. Sophomore quarterback Dan Hardcastle, who has been nursing a sore arm, doubled as a tailback and sophomore Travis Wilkey played both free and strong safety.

The day's drill was behind locked gates and Gass said future workouts before the opener with Mississippi State would be closed.

KU Tackle Pleads Guilty

Kansas City, Kan. (AP) — Thomas J. Gaughan, 22, a member of the University of Kansas football team, pleaded guilty today in U.S. District Court to one count of possessing stolen mail matter.

Gaughan, a senior from Chicago, and a former KU football teammate, sophomore Dennis Cohlmia, 19, Wichita, Kan., were charged with possession of two pay checks totaling $516.60 issued to a teacher who lived in Lawrence this summer.

Neither has been charged with stealing the checks.

Gaughan is a KU letterman listed as a starting offensive tackle. Cohlmia was a reserve middle guard who quit the squad last week.

Carter Keeps Bengals Cracking In 20-13 Win

. . . PAUL ROGERS BOOTS TWO FG FOR LOSERS

Cincinnati (AP) — Cincinnati scored four of the first five times it had the ball Monday night and the Bengal defense held off a Pittsburgh Steelers' rally for a 20-13 National Football League exhibition victory.

Virgil Carter, who led the Bengals to the Central Division title last year, engineered Cincinnati's third straight exhibition triumph.

The castoff of the Chicago Bears and the Buffalo Bills hit 19 of 27 passes for 191 yards and one touchdown.

Terry Bradshaw, Pittsburgh's No. 1 draft choice a year ago, came off the bench in the second half and nearly pulled out at least a tie for the Steelers now 1-1.

Bradshaw had Pittsburgh moving in the last minute but was hit by Cincinnati defensive tackle Steve Chomyszak and fumbled. Bengals linebacker Bill Bergey bounced on the ball and the Steeler's threat was over.

Horst Muhlmann booted field goals of 42 and 16 yards to jump Cincinnati to a 6-0 lead in the first quarter.

Pittsburgh's only score in the first half was a 45-yard field goal by former Nebraska Cornhusker Paul Rogers that hit the crossbar and bounced over.

Grabowski Signs With Chicago; Moore Injured

Chicago (AP) — Running Jim Grabowski, recently placed on waivers by the Green Bay Packers, was signed as a free agent Monday by the Chicago Bears.

Grabowski, whose home is in Chicago, had recurring injuries much of the time with the Packers, who paid him a large bonus to sign in 1965.

The Bears also announced that running back Joe Moore, their No. 1 draft choice from Missouri, suffered torn ligaments in his right ankle in the Minnesota Vikings game Saturday and probably will be lost until Oct. 1.

Whitaker Triumphs In Steer Wrestling

Des Moines, Iowa (AP) — Howard Manuel of Celeste, Tex., and Chip Whitaker of Chambers, Neb., shared top honors in the saddle bronc riding event of the IowaState Fair Rodeo Monday.

Manuel and Chambers each earned 66 points and split the prize money at $337 apiece. Whitaker also won the steer wrestling in 4.1 seconds for $640.

Onofrio Praises Kicking Game, Secondary Play

Columbia, Mo. (AP) — Aloysius Ntuk, a soccer style place kicker from Nigeria, booted two of three field goals from 45 yards away and two from 50 in Missouri's football practices Monday.

Ntuk, Jack Bastable and Greg Hill were 9-for-9 from short range.

Besides the placekicking game, Tiger officials were impressed with Bruce Berry, a sophomore tailback, who returned to practice after being sidelined two days.

Coach Al Onofrio also praised the Tigers' veteran defensive secondary of Henry Stuckey, Lorenzo Brinkley and Pete Buha.

Black Mentor Signed By SMU

Dallas (AP) — Southern Methodist University, the first Southwest Conference school to sign a Negro to an athletic scholarship, came up with the conference's first black coach Monday, Julian Glossen.

Glossen will serve as a graduate assistant in football, helping coach ends on both offense and defense, and as an assistant to track coach Jim Parr.

A member of the Missouri coaching staff last year, Glossen will take education courses at SMU this fall.

OU's Fairbanks Highly Pleased With Workouts

Norman, Okla. (AP) — Oklahoma football coach Chuck Fairbanks was all smiles after sending his squad through three practices Monday.

"We were very enthusiastic," the coach said of the first day's workouts, devoted mainly to teaching assignments and conditioinng. "I believe we are in good condition."

The Sooners are holding short practice in the morning, at noon and in the evening. They will practice twice a day beginning Thursday when the NCAA allows the use of pads.

Junior Garry Baccus, who started part time last year at strong side linebacker, is being tried at middle linebacker. Grant Burget, who spent the spring on defense, has been moved to offensive halfback.

Nixon Names '71 Centennial Year For Fisheries

In recognition of a century of progress in fish management, President Richard M. Nixon has proclaimed 1971 Fisheries Centennial Year, according to the Nebraska Game and Parks Commission.

On Feb. 9, 1871, the U.S. Congress authorized President Grant to appoint the first Commissioner of Fish and Fisheries, the President recalled in his proclamation. Grant soon named professor Spencer Fullerton Baird to the post, and in June, 1871, Baird initiated a program of research concerning the conservation of fish.

It is from this beginning that both the National Marine Fisheries Service of the Commerce Department's National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration and the Department of the Interior's Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife have evolved.

Napoles Knocks Out Frenchman In Fifth

Los Angeles (AP) — World welterweight champion Jose "Mantiquilla" Napoles of Mexico City carved up Jean Josselin of Paris Monday night for four rounds and knocked him out in the fifth of their scheduled 10-round nontitle fight.

Registering his 45th knockout and 62nd ring victory against four losses, the 31-year-old Napoles connected with a left hook that started Josselin on the way down, followed by a right smash to the jaw.

Kansas Mentor Chides Defense For Poor Play

Lawrence, Kan. (AP) — Kansas head football coach Don Fambrough said he wasn't pleased with the way the defense performed in two workouts Monday.

While the coach chided the Jayhawk defenders, he praised punter Marc Harris, 6-2, 170, Lawrence, and place kicker Bob Helmbacher, 5-10, 152, St. Louis.

Missing Monday's afternoon workout was starting middle guard Don Perkins, 6-1, 223. Perkins underwent a leg operation during the summer, and KU officials said the leg was sore following Sunday's first scrimmage.

Dee Lantz, a second string defensive back from Atlantic, Iowa, was on crutches, missing both workouts. It was disclosed the 6-1, 180-pound sophomore now has a slight tear in the cartilage in his left knee.

Sophomore Back Pleases Gibson At Kansas State

Manhattan, Kan. (AP) — A running back from Wichita, Kan., impressed Kansas State officials Monday, the first time they've seen him in pads.

Vince Gibson, K-State head football coach, said he was surprised with Don Calhoun, a 201-pound sophomore, who came to Kansas State on a football grant-in-aid. Calhoun was unable to participate either in freshman competition or spring football for academic reasons.

No major injuries were reported during Monday's workouts. There was no scrimmage.

Line Play Draws Gass' Attention In OSU Camp

Stillwater, Okla. (AP) — Linemen drew the most attention as Oklahoma State went through two full-dress workouts Monday and coach Floyd Gass made some experimental personnel shifts.

He singled out defensive linemen Gilbert Barnes, Berry Price and Jay Cruse.

Regular defensive left end John Allen was tried at guard Monday, making room for Randall Jones and veteran Dan Geier at the defensive end. Sophomore quarterback Dan Hardcastle, who has been nursing a sore arm, doubled as a tailback and sophomore Travis Wilkey played both free and strong safety.

The day's drill was behind locked gates and Gass said future workouts before the opener with Mississippi State would be closed.

KU Tackle Pleads Guilty

Kansas City, Kan. (AP) — Thomas J. Gaughan, 22, a member of the University of Kansas football team, pleaded guilty today in U.S. District Court to one count of possessing stolen mail matter.

Gaughan, a senior from Chicago, and a former KU football teammate, sophomore Dennis Cohlmia, 19, Wichita, Kan., were charged with possession of two pay checks totaling $516.60 issued to a teacher who lived in Lawrence this summer.

Neither has been charged with stealing the checks.

Gaughan is a KU letterman listed as a starting offensive tackle. Cohlmia was a reserve middle guard who quit the squad last week.

Mayor Loses Fight Against West O Truck Garage Plan

By TOM EKVALL
Star Staff Writer

Gerald Lewis Monday cleared his final hurdle with city government in a long series of events to build a truck service garage on West O St.

The proposed garage has been the subject of dispute between the mayor and the council.

Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf has opposed the rezoning to highway business on the agricultural land at West O and Cushman Rd. He cites the lack of city services to the area and its possible effect of encouraging further strip zoning along West O.

Councilman Merle Hale on the other hand contends that the proposed development is ideal and even went to bat for Lewis before the Planning Commission in support of the rezoning.

At its regular session Monday, the City Council voted 5 to 1 to override the mayor's veto of the change of zone. Hale said at the meeting the West O Businessmen's Association endorsed the Lewis development.

Five votes are necessary to override a veto.

The change of zone at one time had been defeated by the council and was then reconsidered and approved the following week. The mayor vetoed the ordinance and a motion to override failed. Councilman Dick Hartsock had then declared a conflict of interest; the motion to override received four votes for approval.

When informed later that Hartsock no longer had a conflict, the council decided to take up the rezoning proposal and approved it; once again the mayor vetoed the change of zone.

League Backs Vetoes

Mrs. Jeanne Agee, president of the Lincoln League of Women Voters, appeared before the council Monday to support the mayor's veto as well as the veto of a proposed rezoning for apartments and a shopping center in the vicinity of 84th and Van Dorn requested by James Strauss.

The council decided to let the Strauss veto stand. No one introduced a motion to override it.

Earlier the council had voted 4-3 in favor of the rezoning with council members Mrs. Helen Boosalis, Steve Cook and Richard Baker voting then against the changes of zone from A-1 Single Family to D Multiple and G Local Business. In the audience were several members of the Planning Commission, which had voted 8 to 0 to recommend denial of all three changes of zones

The council also held a public hearing on a request for a change of zone from A-1 Single Family to K Light Industry on property south of Old Cheney Rd. and east of 56th

Indoor Tennis

Don Bergquist appeared in support of the rezoning, requested to allow development of an indoor tennis court facility.

Bergquist said the industrial zoning is requested to get financing for the project. The lender, he said, wants the rezoning as a guarantee that should the tennis court project later fail. the building could be used for another use

Roger Refshauge, an area resident and tennis player, appeared in opposition to the change of zone to industrial use.

Refshauge said the tennis court should be built instead by special permit at the site.

"The type of zoning is the issue," he said

In other actions, the council:

Taiwan Told In April Of Plans To Seat Reds

©The New York Times

By TAD SZULC

Washington — President Nixon was reported Monday to have advised President Chiang Kai-shek late last April that the United States planned to support the seating of Peking in the United Nations this fall.

A message that the United States was dropping it long standing opposition to mainland China's entry into the United Nations but would fight any effort to expel the Nationalists was reported to have been carried by Robert D. Murphy, a former undersecretary of state.

Administration officials confirmed information on the Murphy mission made available by diplomatic sources. The administration officials said that Murphy had notified Chiang in April of what has emerged more recently as the administration's official policy of dual Chinese representation in the United Nations.

Murphy, who is chairman of the board of the Corning Glass Co, said in a telephone interview Monday that he had visited Taipei, capital of Taiwan, late in April in connection with his company's plans to build a plant to produce television parts

Received By Chiang

He confirmed that he had been received by Chiang and Mrs Chiang, whom he had met in Cairo in 1943 and again in Taipei in 1952, but he declined comment on any conversations involving politics he might have had during this audience.

Other sources said, however, that before leaving for Taiwan, Murphy had been asked to tell Chiang, on Nixon's behalf, that the administration was changing its policy on Chinese representation.

These sources described Murphy's discussion with Chiang as a "consultation" on a possible new United States policy toward the question of Chinese representation.

However, they said, the administration had appeared already to have decided on the dual representation policy when Murphy was requested to convey the message.

Under the circumstances, they said, the announcement by Secretary of State William P. Rogers earlier this month that the United States would support the seating of Peking along with retention of the seat for the Nationalists, could have come as no surprise to the government n Taiwan.

Marked Contrast

This was in marked contrast with Nixon's announcement July 15 that he would visit Peking before May 1972 and that Henry A Kissinger, his assistant for national security affairs, had just returned from a secret mission to China.

James C H. Shen, the Nationalist ambassador here, was informed of Nixon's announcement by Rogers only 20 minutes before the President spoke to the nation on radio and television.

Sources here noted that Murphy met with Chiang about three weeks after Peking responded for the first time to the Nixon administration's overtures for improved relations by issuing an invitation April 7 to a United States table tennis team to visit China.

This invitation is generally regarded as having been a major turning point in Washington-Peking relations. It appeared to be a response to the State Department's announcement March 5 that the 20-year ban on travel by Americans to mainland China was to be lifted.

Reconstructing the spring's events, informed officials here said that the invitation to the American table tennis team set in motion secret negotiations that eventually led to Kissinger's visit to Peking.

Robert Kennedy Is Fined $50 For Loitering

Hyannis, Mass. (UPI) — Robert F. Kennedy Jr, 17, son of the late senator, was arrested on a loitering charge Sunday night after he allegedly spat ice cream into the face of a policeman who had asked him to move his parked car.

In Barnstable District Court Monday, Kennedy pleaded no contest and was ordered to pay $50 in court costs. Because he did not have the money, Judge Henry L. Murphy gave him a week to pay.

Kennedy appeared alone in court. He wore a blue shirt and dungarees.

Policeman Frederick Ahern testified Kennedy's car was parked a distance from the curb outside an ice cream parlor on West Main Street. Kennedy was eating an ice cream cone, Ahern said.

Ahern said Kennedy, who was standing by the car refused to move it as directed. Ahern said he asked Kennedy if he was "drunk." He said Kennedy spat the ice cream at him.

Property Tax Levy Cut May Greet Omahans

Omaha (AP) —The Omaha City Council Monday agreed informally to a 1.25 mill cut in the proposed 1972 property tax levy.

The council Tuesday will formally consider resolutions which would reduce Mayor Eugene Leahy's proposed budget by $743,137. Leahy has threatened to veto any cut of more than one mill in the property tax levy.

The biggest cuts would be in the budgets of the Public Safety Department, the Parks, Recreation and Public Property Department and the Personnel Department.

Stop-Fair Petition Hearing Date Set Back To Aug. 31

The Lancaster County Board will hear testimony Aug. 31, instead of Aug. 24, on a petition drive to stop the State Fair, it was reported Monday.

The hearing on the matter, during which petitions will be presented, had been originally scheduled for Tuesday.

But Beverly Eddy, a University of Nebraska student heading the stop-the-fair movement, said the change resulted from the fact the law under which the protest is being made does not go into effect until Aug. 27

The law being invoked was passed by the 1971 Legislature. It is commonly called the Anti-Rock Festival Measure.

The grave was thought to date from around 1,800 B C and is probably that of a tribe chieftain, the archeologists said.

The New Hampshire organization is part of a planned expansion of present Lindsay-for-president activity in 15 major cities and on more than 300 college campuses, where "we have a very good mix of faculty members and students," Jonas said.

The New Hampshire organization will formally open next week with "a few dozen people" working "in all the major cities," Jonas said. "We're preparing for the eventuality of a primary campaign in each of the primary states."

Direct Cattle Sales

Omaha (AP)—(USDA) — Sales were confirmed on 1,900 head of slaughter steers and heifers sold direct from feedlots in the eastern two-thirds of Nebraska over the weekend and on Monday. This compared with 1,900 head sold during the same period a week earler. About 75% of the confirmed volume sold delivered alive, the balance on a drssed basis.

Slaughter steers and heifers sold delivered alive to packing plants with weighing conditions equivalent to 3% shrink at the feedlots were scarce, limited sales steady but not enough volume to test the trade accurately. High good and choice 825-1,025 lbs 32.00-32.50.

On a dressed hot weight basis, sales too scare to fully test trade, few choice steers steady to weak; heifers weak to 50 lower. Weight only—steers high-good and choice 500-900 lbs. 53.00-53.26, instances 53.50; heifers good to mostly choice 500-700 lbs 51.50, few 51.00.

How to Invest Money

There is much in the paper and on the news currently about inflation. Nearly everyone is confused and worried about what to do. Nearly everyone would agree we have had generally rising prices over our history, and in all probability, this would continue. We have had and probably will have, deflation interruptions such as we had in the 1930's. What most people are trying to do is determine how fast and at what rate prices will go up.

If you have had your money in a savings account the last 10 or 15 years, you certainly haven't kept up with the parade of prices. If you bought all long term bonds from us or the Government 10 or 15 years ago, you haven't done so well either. So, what do you do now?

At times I would personally settle for just trying to keep my dollars even with the price increases and be willing to forget the income. What many of us would like to do is find an investment that can go up x percent per year or one that pays dividends or interest at the same percent net, or find a combination of an investment that pays a fair return and will go up.

As an example of the latter, a 1,000 dollar American Tel. & Tel. 2¾ percent of 8-1-80 for 710 dollars which turns out to be approximately 4 percent on your money and a 40 percent gain in 9 years. Not perfect, but better than nothing.

How about Ohio Edison, 3¼ percent of 5-1-85 at 62⅜, or Public Service of Oklahoma, 3 percent of 2-1-84 at 61½.

I wrote this ad on Friday, August 13, and have to turn it in this morning, August 16, so I haven't changed it after the President's message. We send copies of the ad to the Midwest Stock Exchange and National Association of Securities Dealers in Washington, but I doubt if they know all the answers either.

Market Records Whopping Gain

New York (AP) — The stock market, still basking in the afterglow of President Nixon's announcement of a new economic policy, made a whopping gain Monday. Trading was moderate.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials finished ahead 11.47 points at 892.38. Advances on the New York Stock Exchange led declines by nearly 2 to 1.

Gains were scored by steels, motors, farm implements, aircrafts, chemicals, oils, tobaccos, and drugs All other groups were mixed.

Nixon's new economic policy is expected to benefit automakers particularly, and each of the industry's Big Three made the Big Board's most-active list. Prices included General Motors, up 1¼ at 85; Ford, up 1⅝ at 69⅜; and Chrysler, up ⅝ at 31⅝.

Sony Corp. was off ⅞ at 24½ The import surcharge announced last week could have big implications for the Japanese appliance maker.

Analysts said the market's advance was to be expected in view of the climate of confidence created by the sweeping changes in economic policy announced last week.

The market's massive advance had been preceded late last week by susbstantial profit taking on the record gains last Monday and Tuesday.

Big Board volume rose to 13.05 million shares from 11.9 million shares Friday.

Key indicators behaved as follows:

The New York Stock Exchange index of some 1,200 common stocks was up 0.50 at 54.88. The American Stock Exchange index rose 0.50 to 54.88. The Associated Press 60-stock average rose 4.9 to 327.1. Industrials were up 5.3. Rails were up 5.4, and utilities were up .7. Standard & Poor's 500-stock index rose 1.01 to 99.34.

Of the 1,655 issues traded on the Big Board, 917 advanced, and 474 declined. New yearly highs were reached by 72 issues and lows by 37.

Direct Cattle Sales

Omaha (AP)—(USDA) — Sales were confirmed on 1,900 head of slaughter steers and heifers sold direct from feedlots in the eastern two-thirds of Nebraska over the weekend and on Monday. This compared with 1,900 head sold during the same period a week earler. About 75% of the confirmed volume sold delivered alive, the balance on a drssed basis.

Slaughter steers and heifers sold delivered alive to packing plants with weighing conditions equivalent to 3% shrink at the feedlots were scarce, limited sales steady but not enough volume to test the trade accurately. High good and choice 825-1,025 lbs 32.00-32.50.

On a dressed hot weight basis, sales too scare to fully test trade, few choice steers steady to weak; heifers weak to 50 lower. Weight only—steers high-good and choice 500-900 lbs. 53.00-53.26, instances 53.50; heifers good to mostly choice 500-700 lbs 51.50, few 51.00.

How to Invest Money

There is much in the paper and on the news currently about inflation. Nearly everyone is confused and worried about what to do. Nearly everyone would agree we have had generally rising prices over our history, and in all probability, this would continue. We have had and probably will have, deflation interruptions such as we had in the 1930's. What most people are trying to do is determine how fast and at what rate prices will go up.

If you have had your money in a savings account the last 10 or 15 years, you certainly haven't kept up with the parade of prices. If you bought all long term bonds from us or the Government 10 or 15 years ago, you haven't done so well either. So, what do you do now?

At times I would personally settle for just trying to keep my dollars even with the price increases and be willing to forget the income. What many of us would like to do is find an investment that can go up x percent per year or one that pays dividends or interest at the same percent net, or find a combination of an investment that pays a fair return and will go up.

As an example of the latter, a 1,000 dollar American Tel. & Tel. 2¾ percent of 8-1-80 for 710 dollars which turns out to be approximately 4 percent on your money and a 40 percent gain in 9 years. Not perfect, but better than nothing.

How about Ohio Edison, 3¼ percent of 5-1-85 at 62⅜, or Public Service of Oklahoma, 3 percent of 2-1-84 at 61½.

I wrote this ad on Friday, August 13, and have to turn it in this morning, August 16, so I haven't changed it after the President's message. We send copies of the ad to the Midwest Stock Exchange and National Association of Securities Dealers in Washington, but I doubt if they know all the answers either.

Heavy Bombing Attack Records First Big Kill

Saigon (AP) — U.S. B52 bombers were credited Monday with their first big kill in their intensified bombing campaign to smother North Vietnamese attacks along South Vietnam's northern frontier.

South Vietnamese infantrymen on a scouting mission reported finding bodies of 76 North Vietnamese soldiers in one of the target areas of B52 strikes about 15 miles south of the demilitarized zone dividing North and South Vietnam.

The infantrymen also uncovered nine machine guns, 10 assault rifles and four rocket launchers.

It was the first sizable score confirmed for the B52s since the big bombers stepped up their pounding below the DMZ in an effort to blunt North Vietnamese attacks that began 12 days ago.

Nearly a score of B52s hit again in the northern front in six waves. They dumped more than 500 tons of explosives on North Vietnamese rocket and mortar launching sites and suspected troop concentrations.

It was the third straight day that 20 or more of the eight-engine bombers struck in a concentrated area below the DMZ doubling the daily raids of the week previous.

The heavy raids appeared to be having at least some effect in slowing North Vietnamese ground attacks although shellings for forward allied bases continued.

Only one ground encounter was reported Monday. This was a sharp fight about a mile from Fire Base Alpha 4, one of the South Vietnamese hilltop bases linked in a protective chain along the northern front.

South Vietnamese headquarters said four North Vietnamese were killed and put government losses at two killed and 14 wounded.

The Saigon command reported five new shelling attacks by the North Vietnamese in the northern provinces late Sunday and Monday morning.

Two of these were rocket and mortar bombardments of Alpha 2 and a third was a mortar barrage on Fire Base Camp Fuller. The other two shellings were a five-rocket attack on the northern city of Dong Ha and a 20-round mortar barrage against the district town of Song Ha. Command spokesmen said there were no casualties at Dong Ha, but five Vietnamese civilians were wounded in the district town.

In one of a handful of small encounters, elsewhere, South Vietnamese infantrymen ambushed an enemy unit in the central highlands and killed 17 while sustaining two men wounded, the Saigon command reported. The action took place late Sunday night near a district town 230 miles northeast of Saigon.

The U.S. Command announced a cut in American troop strength in Vietnam of 2,800 men last week as part of the steady withdrawal from the conflict.

The cut lowered to 220,100 men in the total of American troops in Vietnam as of last Thursday, the lowest since February 1966 when the figure was 208,000 and the American build-up was still under way.

Under the withdrawal schedule announced last spring by President Nixon, U.S. troop strength will drop to 184,000 by Dec. 1.

Armour Plant Full Operations Due Wednesday

Omaha (AP) — Full production is expected to resume by Wednesday at the South Omaha Armour and Co. plant after settlement of a dispute which led to a walkout last week by members of local 8 of the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen of North America.

Virgil O. Eades, plant manager, said slaughter operations will resume Monday morning. He said negotiations between company and union officials Thursday and Friday led to the settlement.

Eades declined to specify the cause of the dispute, which affected about 425 workers.

Local 8 president Abdias Alba said the cause of the walkout was "very complicated," and it would not be fair to either side to discuss it.

The walkout started in some departments last Monday.

Livestock Auction
SALE EVERY WEDNESDAY
Selling Hay and Straw at 11:30am — Hogs at 12 Noon; Sheep, Calves and Cattle Following In That Order.

A summary of our market last Wednesday shows top butcher hogs sold at $19; sows sold at $15.90; feeder pigs ranged from $9.75 to $14.25 and market boars closed at $12.25 to $17.30. Baby calves ranged from 32 to $82.50 with the heavier types selling up to $118. The 400 lb. to 650 lb. feeder steers and heifers ranged from $29.80 to $35.50 and those weighing over 650 lb sold mostly from $27.50 to $33.20. All grades of Holsteins ranged from $26.50 to $28. Slaughter cows (all grades) ranged from $19.50 to $23.10. Stock cows sold from $225 to $280 and cows with calves at side sold from $241 to $285 per family. Butcher bulls ranged from $25 to $28.10. No sheep were offered for sale last Wednesday. New crop hay sold at 45c to 69c per bale.

We expect our usual run of feeder cattle, steers and heifers, stock cows and bulls and baby calves — all classes of hogs (butchers, sows, feeder pigs and boars) plus some sheep and lambs and 400 to 500 bales of hay and straw. We have several loads of feeder cattle promised and have just consigned 15 Black Whitefaced steers weighing 575 to 600 lb., strictly green. Looks like a prospect for a good sale Wednesday. August 25th. 24c

Selling Hay and Straw at 11:30am — Hogs at 12 Noon; Sheep, Calves and Cattle Following In That Order.
A summary of our market last Wednesday shows top butcher hogs sold at $19; sows sold at $15.90; feeder pigs ranged from $9.75 to $14.25 and market boars closed at $12.25 to $12.30. Baby calves ranged from 32 to $82.50 with the heavier types selling up to $118. The 400 lb. to 650 lb. feeder steers and heifers ranged from $29.80 to $35.50 and those weighing over 650 lb. sold mostly from $27.50 to $33.20. All grades of Holsteins ranged from $26.50 to $28. Slaughter cows (all grades) ranged from $19.50 to $23.10. Stock cows sold from $225 to $280 and cows with calves at side sold from $241 to $285 per family. Butcher bulls ranged from $25 to $28.10. No sheep were offered for sale last Wednesday. New crop hay sold at 45c to 69c per bale.
We expect our usual run of feeder cattle, steers and heifers, stock cows and bulls and baby calves — all classes of hogs (butchers, sows, feeder pigs and boars) plus some sheep and lambs and 400 to 500 bales of hay and straw. We have several loads of feeder cattle promised and have just consigned 15 Black Whitefaced steers weighing 575 to 600 lb., strictly green. Looks like a prospect for a good sale Wednesday. August 25th. 24c

Here is a practical little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is six or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add three. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures gives you.
